COOLIDGE CALLS THE GOVERNORS OF N. E. TO ACT IN COAL CRISIS

JENKINS' RELEASE A PUZZLE

Circumstances Mystify State Department; Starts Probe to Get at Facts

By International News Service.

Washington Dec. 6.—The release of Consular Agent William O. Jenkins by the Mexican authorities is shrouded in mystery and the State Department today began a thorough investigation of the manner in which the American consular official was liberated from the Puebla jail.

By whom the $500 bail was furnished, upon whose authority the amount was put up, and the motives underlying these acts, are totally unknown here. Not only is the State Department absolutely in the dark as to the facts in the case, but Jenkins himself, it is said, does not know how or why he was turned loose.

A report from Mexico City stated that the money had been put up by Walter Hansen, a Danish-American banker, newly arrived in Mexico, and an impression got abroad that perhaps there had been a change of attitude on the part of the United States government.

FALSE, SAYS LANSING.

"It is absolutely false," Secretary of State Lansing announced today. "The State Department never for a moment thought of changing the policy of Jenkins in refusing bail."

It is understood that Jenkins has begun an investigation on his own account to find out why and by whom bail was given for his freedom.

From the start Jenkins has refused to give bail, though the amount was ridiculously small. Carranza's reply to Secretary Lansing's note asking for the release of Jenkins mentioned the fact that although the bail in Jenkins' case had purposely been made very small, Jenkins refused to put it up.

JENKINS WAS FIRM.

It is not believed in official circles that Jenkins himself underwent a

Channel Tunnel to Give England Rail Line to Turkey

By International News Service.

London, Dec. 6.—Continuous train service between London and Constantinople, a distance of about 2,600 miles, by rail, is contemplated if the proposed tunnel under the English Channel is constructed.

"The tunnel is fast emerging from the dreary stage," said the Daily Express. "We are no longer an island and five Victorian ideas now falls flat. With modern methods the tunnel ought to be completed by 1926, and then England and France would be linked by land. Think of going aboard the Constantinople express at Victoria station! Its due course Pullman trains may be coming from London all the way to Bagdad."

CHARGE MURDER IN KILLING OF GUARD

Grand Jury Returns Indictment in West End Barber Shop Death Case

Joseph De Laurentis was indicted on a charge of murder in the first degree by the Suffolk County Grand Jury in connection with the fatal shooting of William L. Duchaine, a State Guardsman. De Laurentis, a Cambridge street barber, engaged in a quarrel with Thomas H. Conrey. Duchaine, according to evidence, entered the shop to intervene, and was shot by a bullet intended for Conrey.

The Grand Jury returned indictment against a number of corporations which are charged with keeping food in cold storage to receive them a year without permission from the Board of Health.

Frank L. O'Brien was indicted on the charge of operating an automobile so as to endanger the lives of the public. It is charged that the death of Maurice Dickerson and George H. Hicks who were driving with O'Brien, was caused by injuries received when his car overturned.

No bill was returned in the case of Bernard J. McGaffigan, who was arrested on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Gertrude Carlson in Everett square, Dorchester, October 24. McGaffigan was operating an automobile at the time.

SERVANT FINED FOR HITTING EMPLOYER

Newport, R. I., Dec. 6.—As the aftermath of a scrimmage between Captain William H. Reynolds, U. S. N., and Bertha Marshall, colored, a discharged servant, the woman was fined $10 for assault, and costs, by Judge Baker. The courtroom was crowded with colored people, the case having stirred much race feeling in the colored colony. The woman appealed and was held in $200. A counter charge of assault against the navy officer will be heard later. The alleged fight took place November 11, when the woman, who had been discharged, returned to the house of Captain Reynolds. According to the Captain, she demanded admittance, and on being refused, became abusive. He testified she struck him with a rake, drawing blood, and that he defended himself with a gold stick, which became broken in the fray.

French Send Artillery to Right Bank in Crisis Over the Peace Treaty

By International News Service.

Paris, Dec. 6.—The French have moved many pieces of heavy artillery to the right bank of the Rhine in order to be prepared for any eventuality in case Germany rejects the peace treaty ratification protocol, the Matin stated today.

A news agency dispatch from Strasbourg said that there was unusual activity prevalent among the allied forces on the German frontier Friday. Many heavy guns were moved across the Rhine and troops crossed with them.

The Supreme Council met at 10:30 o'clock, when Marshal Foch and Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, chief of staff of the British Army, made detailed reports on the measures to be taken if Germany refuses to sign the protocol of ratification.

TARTARS LOSE 500, FIGHTING ARMENIANS

New York, Dec. 6.—The decisive defeat of a Tartar force, commanded by Turkish officers, that attacked Armenian troops at Zangazur was reported here today by the American committee for the independence of Armenia. The Tartars lost 500 in dead and wounded. The news of the resumption of warfare in the near East was contained in a cablegram from Arivan, capital of the republic of Armenia.

SEND SKEFFINGTON TO MAYNARD MILLS

Washington, Dec. 6.—The Department of Labor today assigned Conciliator Henry J. Skeffington to a strike of textile workers at Maynard Mass. The request for a mediator was made by John Golden, president of the United Textile Workers of America, who informed the department that "Bolshevikis were at work and the situation is critical."

Telephone Girls Will Sell Tags for the Christmas Fund

Boston telephone operators are rallying to the cause of the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund in fine fashion. Many "hello" girls have offered their services as tag sellers on the double tag day, next Friday and Saturday.

The Beach exchange is one of the leaders in the movement to help the basket fund. Some of the operators at that exchange—which is one of the busiest in the world—who have offered their services to enable hungry children and their mothers to have a good Christmas dinner are Misses Helen L. Walsh, Alice M. Flynn, Alice L. O'Connell, Kathrine F. O'Neil, Mary Drumney, Harriet T. Marsche, Mary L. Kelliher, Josephine Callahan, Grace Hagan, Nora Finkelstein and Mrs. Ruth E. Doyle.

Wilson Shows No Ill Effects of Meeting With Senators

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Apparently showing no ill effects of his long interview with Senators Hitchcock and Fall yesterday afternoon, President Wilson awoke and breakfasted early today.

After breakfast the President gave his attention to the matters of routine business scheduled by Dr. Grayson, and was in very good spirits, according to White House attaches.

Dr. Francis X. Dercum, the Philadelphia neurologist, made his weekly visit to the White House at noon today to "check up" on the President's condition with Dr. Grayson.

ARREST DOCTOR AFTER GIRL CONFESSES

Dr. Edward Schon of Western avenue and Mail street, Lynn, was arrested, charged with illegal operation following an alleged confession by a seventeen-year-old school girl.

The girl, whose name the police withheld, but who is said to be a daughter of a prominent Lynn family, is believed to be in a critical condition.

Dr. Schon was taken from his bed by Inspectors John J. Sullivan and Frank W. Stevens. At the police station he obtained bail and was released.

According to the police, the girl became ill yesterday, and her parents then learned for the first time what had taken place. Believing herself to be dying, she is said to have made a statement implicating Dr. Schon. The police were notified, and his arrest followed.

REDUCTION OF TAXES HELD IMPOSSIBLE

Washington, Dec. 6.—Reduction of income, excess profits and other wartime taxes is considered impossible by the Senate leaders. Senator Watson, Republican, of Indiana, in charge of financial legislation during the absence of Senator Penrose from Washington, said today demands for large appropriations make reduction of taxes impossible. Revision of the wartime taxes to remove the levy on soft drinks, beer substitutes, and other articles will be given serious consideration by the committee. The revenue derived from this source amounts to more than $185,000,000.

PASSES LIE IN ROLLINS TRIAL

Exciting Climax as Attorney Is Attacked for Statement by Spectator

A dramatic scene occurred in court in the course of the argument in the Rollins murder trial today. Roger T. Long, an electrician and witness for Rollins, arose and shouted at Prosecutor Gallagher: "You lie!" He was ejected from the court.

Lon's interruption came during one of the climaxes of the assistant district attorney's argument. The latter had just said to the jury: "Why did Long not go to Maine? Because Walsh (attorney for Rollins) wanted him to remain until after Mrs. Arnold (the State's principal witness) had testified."

Asking for a verdict of first degree murder, Assistant District Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher made the final argument in the trial of Charles Rollins, accused of killing Edward P. Foley, manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company's store at No. 16 Blue Hill avenue, on the night of February 17, 1917. Arguments were finished before the noon recess.

Major Thomas L. Walsh, chief counsel for the defendant, in his plea to the jury challenged the State to disprove Rollins' alibi that he was in the tea store, where he was well known, why did not some one in that neighborhood see him?

"The man who killed Foley was unmasked. It is not reasonable to suppose that Charles Rollins would have gone in there without any disguise."

The State's witness, John J. Mitchell, who testified that Rollins had told him the night after the murder that he had committed the crime, was the object of a bitter attack from Walsh. A charge of larceny is now pending against Mitchell in the State courts.

"If Rollins went to the home of his sweetheart, now Mitchell's wife, and she answered the door, why has not she been brought here to testify.

"There has not been a particle of evidence to show that the police wanted Rollins between the night of the murder and March 8 of the year," asserted the attorney. "On the early evening of March 8, Rollins went to police headquarters with his attorney, but he was not arrested by Superintendent of Police Crowley, with whom they conferred.

"I do not believe that the superintendent would have taken such a risk with a man wanted for first degree murder. Rollins was taken in custody a few hours later by Inspector Patterson. It was not until after Mrs. Arnold's identification the next day that the charge was filed against Rollins."

Counsel charged the prosecution with unfair tactics in withholding from the defendant's counsel transcripts of the examination of witnesses shortly after the murder by police inspectors.

New Bill for Ireland Faces Severe Setback

By L. R. MURDOCH.

Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Special Cable Dispatch.

London, Dec. 6.—The British government is not prepared to introduce the new Irish bill in Parliament, and Commons will adjourn without the new proposal having been submitted, it is learned on good authority today.

Inspired reports in the government press indicate that Parliament is likely to be asked at the next session again to postpone the Irish solution, on the ground that the revised new Home Rule Act is not ready and that conditions in Ireland are too turbulent to render the discussion opportune or fruitful.

In the same press it is hinted that the government intends suppressing trial by jury in Ireland, but, though these hints are inspired, Premier Lloyd George is known to fear that such a drastic step would be the crowning act of suppression and that it would eliminate all faith in justice.

GABY DES LYS SERIOUSLY ILL IN PARIS

Paris, Dec. 6.—Gaby Deslys, famous French dancer, who was recently operated on, has taken a sudden turn for the worse and is in a serious condition. It was stated today that grippe, accompanied by high fever, has followed the operation. The original trouble was abscess of the throat.

SNOW OR RAIN IS SUNDAY FORECAST

Bostonians will Sunday indoors, or make friends with raincoats, umbrellas and overshoes, according to Weather Forecaster Smith. The forecast is, snow or rain late tonight and Sunday, with slowly rising temperature. Fresh east to southeast winds will prevail. The storm is due to arrive tonight shortly after the theatre crowds are safely home. It is caused by disturbances in the lower lake region and in the Ohio valley. The lowest temperature recorded today was six degrees above at Northfield.

RHODE ISLAND DOES NOT FEAR SHORTAGE

Providence, R. I., Dec. 6.—Prospects of a coal famine in Rhode Island are remote. While there is a great shortage of stove and chestnut coal, egg and pea is fairly plentiful throughout the State. There is a shortage at Woonsocket, which threatens to close the doors of the mills, throwing thousands out of work, but other places throughout the State report that they have a "start" of about 60 to 90 days in their supplies. Since the last famine a great many of the mill owners have been stocking up with coal. Others have installed oil-burning systems.

LANSING DENIES HE RECALLED HAPGOOD

Washington, Dec. 6.—Norman Hapgood, the American Minister to Denmark, who on his way back to this country, has not been recalled by the State Department, as has been reported in the London press. The London report was that Hapgood had been in close touch with the Russian Soviets and had been making many statements indicating his sympathy with the Bolshevists. Secretary Lansing said it was untrue that Minister Hapgood has been invited to come home. Hapgood, he said, was returning for a vacation.

ASKED TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Governor Coolidge, aroused over the dangerous coal situation which confronts New England, today called a conference of New England governors to take measures to protect New England's supply of coal.

"The principal reason I have called the conference," said Governor Coolidge, "is to prepare for the dangerous coal situation which confronts us. First, we must conserve coal, and, secondly, see how we can get more." The conference will be held at the State House next Wednesday at 2 p. m.

James J. Storrow, Massachusetts Fuel Administrator, announced today that he will issue fuel regulations probably on Monday, which will go into effect next week.

Mr. Storrow, who was appointed by Governor Coolidge, added that heatless days and lightless nights,

STORROW AND ATTWILL TO ATTEND CONFERENCE

Abbott P. Smith of New Bedford, chairman of the Massachusetts Commission on Foreign and Domestic Commerce; James J. Storrow, State Fuel Administrator; Henry C. Attwill, chairman of the Committee on Public Utilities; Attorney-General Henry C. Wyman and Chairman John N. Cole of the Department of Public Works have been requested by Governor Coolidge to attend the Governor's coal conference Wednesday at the State House.

ogether with measures even more drastic than wartime regulations, will be introduced here shortly.

The next step to be taken locally was the announcement of a 10 per cent. reduction on all New England railroads, which it is understood will seriously affect suburban traffic.

The new schedule has not as yet been worked out, but it was stated unofficially that local service would be the first to suffer.

While the coal shortage in Massachusetts and New England is not acute at present, it was believed to be advisable to adopt preventive regulations in case the situation at the mines is not improved.

While no announcement has as yet been made of the number of trains to be removed, it is known that the famous Knickerbocker and Merchants' Limited of the New Haven and the Twentieth Century Limited of the Boston & Albany will be included. Many sleepers and all dining cars, except on long-haul trains, also will be dropped, and it is said that the new schedule will go into effect by next Wednesday.

Three textile plants in Woonsocket, R. I., have announced a shutdown on Monday, because of the lack of coal, and the local manager of the Edison Co. to run electric signs only one hour a night.

STORROW TAKES UP DUTIES.

Mr. Storrow, in taking up the reins of the State fuel administrator, under appointment by Governor Coolidge, announces that the situation has reached such an acute stage that drastic measures are necessary to prevent the public from literally freezing to death and to assure the operation of "essential" industries.

Governor Coolidge invoked the authority of the "Defence of the Commonwealth" act of 1917 in appointing Mr. Storrow, who will serve Massachusetts only and not New England as he did as Federal fuel administrator for New England during the war.

The acuteness of the situation was emphasized by the meeting held by the New England sub-coal committee of the South Station and which brought by nearly twenty hours. W. T. LaMoure, representing the Boston & Maine, presided at this session. Others present were: C. N. Woodward, representing the New England; F. P. Gardiner, representing the Boston & Albany; C. D. Barrows, representing the Maine Central, and Allan M. Macleod, representing National Fuel Administrator Garfield.

"PULLMANS TO GO.

Drastic changes in train schedules were made, and late today an official announcement will be made of trains to be removed on the various roads operating out of Boston. It is known that the Knickerbocker and Merchants' Limited of the New Haven road and the Twentieth Century Limited of the Boston & Albany will be eliminated. New trains, if any, will carry Pullman cars, and only on trains making long runs will dining cars be permitted. Sleeping car service on all roads will also be greatly curtailed. It is expected that this schedule will go into effect on December 16.

Fuel Administrator Storrow will co-operate with the New England sub-committee and a second, intensive effort will be made to save fuel in every possible way. Mr. Storrow announces that it will be necessary to invoke the same measures that were in force during the war relative to the conservation of fuel, and hinted that the present situation warrants even more severe measures than during the war.

HEATLESS DAYS AGAIN.

Heatless days and lightless nights will be enforced, and on orders from Governor Lowden of this State, went to Washington to present to the government officials a "word picture of the suffering in the West," and to suggest that both industrial operations are ready to get together if allowed the opportunity.

Governor Lowden had an appointment today with Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners, to go over the situation. Oglesby prepared to show government officials at Washington that the miners have no desire to continue the strike—that they fear the strike will wreck their union.

LOWDEN WIRES GARFIELD.

Governor Lowden sent the following telegram to Fuel Administrator Garfield:

"As I understand from press reports, at the time you proposed a coordinated effort to avoid pictures of suffering in the West," and to suggest that both industrial operators

'DOWN WITH HIGH HEELS AND POWDER,' CRY OF WOMAN DOCTOR

STARTS TO REFORM DRESS

Dr. Meredith, After Scoring New Yorkers, Says Boston Girls Are Attired Sensibly

By Universal Service.

New York, Dec. 6.—Miss Health Commissioner Dr. Royal Copeland remarked to a reporter the other day that women should be allowed to wear whatever they chose because it mattered little to their health whether skirts are voluminous or scanty, whether stockings be of silk or homespun, he had no idea he was stirring up agitation which would result in the start of a Y. W. C. A. campaign to reform women's dress up and down the country.

Dr. Florence L. Meredith, who originates from Boston and is girl health expert at the Y. W. C. A. health demonstration centre in this city, is the woman who has taken up cudgels against Dr. Copeland and will head the fight to make the women and girls of America wear "respectable clothing."

CALLS WOMEN DISGUISED.

"Down with rouge, high heels, powder, paint and perfumery," cried Miss Dr. Meredith. "The women of New York all seem to be dying on their short-waped, high-heeled shoes. Underneath their facial calsomining of paint and powder their complexions are paler than the lily and by no means as pure.

"Things have reached a pretty pass," continued the healthy woman physician, whose hobby is the health of her sex, and who has made physical examinations of 3,000 girls in her experience, including four years of incoming freshmen at Wellesley College. "Today as I walked up Broadway and saw the shockingly scanty costumes and the flashy, daring styles of women and girls, it was impossible for me—a woman experienced in the ways of womankind—to tell the girls I saw from the innocent.

"And think of the moral effect of all this upon the young men of this modern Babylon. Surely, no New York youth can retain his respect for womankind when his sisters, mothers and, yes, even grandmothers, too, dress and be-rouge and be-paint themselves like the creatures of the underworld who parts forth at night, the scarlet banner of their shame flaunted on their lips and cheeks.

DO NOT PAINT IN BOSTON.

"Thank God," continued Miss Meredith, "that in Boston, where I come from and where women seem to have cornered the intellect of the country, the girls have too much good sense to daub their faces.

"I verily believe that one reason why Boston girls do not paint and New York girls make futuristic canvases of their countenances is because New York damsels are not half as pretty as their Boston sisters. The New York girls walk in a slipshod fashion on their heels and their corsets. In Boston half the women are going unlaced. For instance—"

Dr. Meredith, who was being interviewed in her luxurious suite in an uptown hotel, stood up, inflated her silk shirt-clad bosom with a deep breath and placed her hands upon her firm, slim, black-skirted hips. She bent to show how supple a woman's form can be without corsets.

TO ATTACK SHOES FIRST.

"We're going to start a campaign, beginning immediately," she went on, "and our first step is to be in shoes. I mean it almost literally. We're going to see if we can't persuade New York women and then the women of the country to save their nerves, vitamins and lengthen their lives by wearing sensible footwear. Form-fitting shoes with flat heels are what I mean."

"The next step is to be stockings, and then shirtwaists and then clothing generally. Hats are well enough as they are, and women's underwear is quite all right, too. We wear the same sort of things Winter and Summer, it's healthy.

"Health, decency and comfort will be the three points that this modern is going to stress. The work will be educational in form."

"Let 'em wear what they want and be done with it," impatiently reiterated Dr. Copeland when told of Dr. Meredith's stand. "Lord, what a hornet's nest I've stirred up. I merely said that silk stockings did not throw as much moisture to the surface, because most women used to think silk stockings and flimsy clothing were harmful in the cold weather. Now the Y. W. C. A. women are on my trail.

COPELAND DEFENDS PAINT.

"It seems to me that since the pure food and drug act has seen to it that cosmetics contain no harmful ingredients, women may paint and powder without harm to themselves. I think they will continue to use 'make-up.'

"If we are to judge by history, from the beginning of civilization women have been making the most of their charms by artificial aid. Show me the beautiful women of Cleopatra down, who has stormed the eye-brow pencil, the lip-stick or the powder puff.

"Women themselves are the arbiters of the things they wear. Their bodies are not accustomed to their corsets. Their feet fit themselves to their shoes. The varying fashions of the ages do not seem to have shortened the lives of women.

"I am in favor of the utmost freedom possible to the limbs. The more artistic and beautiful the clothing the better. Simplicity is the keynote I would like to see struck. As for the morality involved—go see the preachers about that."

IRISH PROTESTANTS HERE TO FIGHT DE VALERA

VALERA ISSUES CHALLENGE TO ULSTERITES

New York, Dec. 6.—President Eamon de Valera of the Republic of Ireland greeted the Ulster Unionist Council with a challenge to debate the Irish question before an American audience. The President put nine pointed interrogations to the visiting delegation and suggested that a wholly Protestant American commission be named to investigate and report on the truth of Erin's cause.

Far from appearing disconcerted at the arrival of the Unionist clergy, Mr. de Valera smilingly asserted that he was pleased at their coming, adding:

"Delighted is the best way to express our feelings. This is one of the greatest things that could have happened to us. Now we will not have to do all our fighting at a 5,000-mile range. We will have the personal contact which will get us somewhere without loss of time.

"What we want is the ventilation of our cause. Truth is mighty and must prevail. All of us welcome cordially the arrival of our opponents, and we hope that an opportunity will be afforded to thresh out the whole subject.

Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the American Commission on Irish Independence, sent a letter to William Coote, spokesman for the Ulsterites, denying the latter's statement that the reports of British atrocities in Ireland were false, and adding:

"This is to advise you, therefore, that any charges of falsehood imputed to Governor Dunne or myself with respect to the acts of brutality mentioned in said report will be slanderous in their nature, and with this notification will on taken, if hereafter made, instituted with express malice."

President de Valera's statement said that the Ulster Unionist delegation represented a party that polled only 28 per cent. of the Irish electors at the latest election. He quoted Mr. Coote as saying the visitors are here in the interest of law and order, truth and honesty, fair play and principle.

The nine questions to which he asked answers from the Unionist delegation concern:

The right of Britain to rule Ireland; the manner in which its rule has been maintained there; the right of the majority to decide on the form of government; the similarity between Erin's cause and that of America in 1776; whether Ireland today is not comparable to Belgium under the German army of occupation, and:

"Is it not a fact that Irish independence has had for its most distinguished leaders in the past century and a half Irishmen who were not of the Roman Catholic faith—conclusive evidence that the ecclesiastical division of Ireland is not on the basis of religious belief."

KILLS STEP-FATHER, WOUNDS SELF HUNTING

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 6.—Lahan Chase, aged nineteen, was accidentally shot and killed and his step-father, Walter Davis, was shot in the thigh while hunting on Blue Job Mountain. The accident resulted when Chase slipped and fell on a ledge. Both barrels of the shotgun he was carrying discharged.

One of the charges entered Chase's head, the other struck Davis in the thigh. Though painfully wounded Davis made his way down the mountain to summons medical aid. His wounds are not serious.

Rich Haverhill Man Weds Girl Stitcher in His Shoe Plant

Haverhill, Dec. 6.—A romance was divulged in this city today by the announcement that Alonzo B. Walker and Miss Anna E. Moran were quietly married Wednesday at the home of Miss Emma Mason, Spring Park avenue, Jamaica Plain, by the Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor of the First Universalist Church in this city.

This couple will enjoy their honeymoon in St. Petersburg, Fla., and will return to this city and reside at Mr. Walker's home, No. 44 Highland avenue, next month.

The groom is a heavy stockholder and superintendent of the Charles K. Fox Shoe Company, one of the largest manufacturing shoe firms in New England. His bride was employed in the stitching room, over which Mr. Walker's deceased wife presided as forelady for twenty years.

HYDE PARK OBJECTS TO PAYING TWO FARES

Hyde Park's protest against being required to pay 20 cents to ride into Boston on the trolleys was voiced by representatives of various civic organizations of that section of the city before the committee on street railways.

At the present time residents of Hyde Park are obliged to pay 10 cents on the Eastern Massachusetts and 10 cents on the Elevated to get from their homes into the business section of the city. Under the terms of a bill supported by Hyde Park people the fare would be a joint one of only 10 cents, covering their transportation over the lines of both companies.

ASKS $50,000 FOR LOSS OF WIFE'S SOCIETY

New Bedford, Dec. 6.—Hugh Senesac, a wealthy real estate operator of No. 173 William street, seeks $50,000 compensation in a suit at law against Antonio Moutetro de Machado for damages he says he suffered from the loss of the affections of his wife, Annie Senesac, and from being deprived of her society, companionship and aid.

DeMachado is captain of a packet schooner plying between this port and the Cape Verde Islands. His home is at Lisbon, Portugal, but until a few weeks ago he had been living in this city for several months.

CHARGES HEIRESS WIFE PREFERRED GAY LIFE

Portland, Me., Dec. 6.—Lieutenant Francis J. Braun, formerly a member of the 56th Pioneer Infantry, who is seeking a divorce from his wife, formerly Miss Anne Millikan, one of Portland's richest heiresses, testified before Judge Lauren M. Sanborn in the Superior Court that an estrangement resulted because his wife preferred a continuous round of social events and wanted to attend social functions and dances, while he preferred a quiet home life. Braun bases his suit on the grounds of desertion.

LADD DENIES GUILT IN NEWBERRY CASE

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 6.—George S. Ladd, former master of the Massachusetts State Grange, who was charged with fraud and conspiracy in connection with the election of Truman H. Newberry as United States Senator, pleaded not guilty in the Federal Court. Ladd, who formerly lived at Surbridge, Mass., was held in $2,600 bail by Judge C. W. Sessions.

Others arraigned were E. V. Clinton, Chicago, whose bond was fixed at $10,000, and Thomas P. Phillips, Detroit writer, released in $2,500.

Phones Police from R. I. Home; Eluded Detectives During Four Months' Chase

East Greenwich, R. I., Dec. 6.—Pursued by the police in every city from Boston to Chicago during the last four months, but always managing to elude arrest, Miss May L. Yorston, aged 23, quietly appeared at the home of her parents here and gave herself up to the authorities.

She was immediately arraigned before Clerk George A. Loomis, Fourth District Court, to answer two charges —embezzling $1,600 and stealing another $1,600 from the Union Trust Company, by whom she was employed.

CALLED POLICE ON PHONE.

She was held in $1,600 bail in each case for the grand jury, which meets in January. Bail was furnished by Frank L. Murray.

Miss Yorston came home as quietly as she slipped out on August 6. The first intimation of her appearance was when Chief of Police John H. Murray was informed by the girl's father, Henry F. Yorston, over the telephone that his daughter was at home and would surrender herself.

AUTO IS RECOVERED.

Miss Yorston took little cash, it was stated, the bank officials and the police claiming that her defalcations consisted largely of Liberty bonds. She went to one of the local brokers and disposed of her Liberty bonds, according to an official of the bank.

Before the search was really under way, Miss Yorston wrote a letter from Boston to the bank manager telling him where he could find an automobile she had bought. It was recovered.

From Boston Miss Yorston went West and finally landed in Cleveland, Ohio. While detectives were searching for Miss Yorston in Cleveland she is said to have been staying in Toledo, only miles away.

TRYING TO FIND AUTO IN OTTERSON CASE

Manchester, N. H., Dec. 6.—Detectives are busily trying to locate a certain auto reported to have passed through here on the night of the Otterson murder.

Mrs. Marion L. Otterson, who is accused of slaying her brother-in-law, has persistently said that the men who shot the ex-soldier fled in an auto.

$45,000 FIRE IN FAMED SHAKER VILLAGE

Harvard, Dec. 6.—The old "Shaker Village" located in the town was swept by fire that for a time threatened its destruction. A total of seven of buildings that once formed the communistic settlement. The damage is estimated at $45,000.

Three buildings were destroyed, including the old "Shell House," a wooden factory building occupied by the A. & M. Ice and Stock Company, and a five-story dwelling house.

KAISER DIRECTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR THE GREAT WAR.

Recent examination of the German imperial state papers, issued before and during the war, discloses marginal notes and comment by the ex-Kaiser, proving beyond question that he used every influence to bring on the most frightful war in history and cause the death of ten million men.

The facts disclosing the Kaiser's personal guilt are printed exclusively in next Sunday's

Zita Hides Liquors from the Thirsty Ex-Emperor

Paris, Dec. 6.—Ex-Empress Zita is enforcing prohibition at the chateau in Switzerland which is the home of the exiled Austrian royal couple. The dry decree of the former empress does not ban wines but is aimed at cordials and other "strong drink," the Paris newspapers learn.

The Empress Zita is determined on awakening the public officials to the importance of the traffic, which is international in its scope.

Petitions for a new and broader grand jury investigation have been placed in circulation in East Jaffrey and surrounding communities, and scores of signatures are being obtained.

"We want the Dean case cleared up, and we are willing to sign petitions to do anything that will accomplish this end," said a citizen after citizen. Women are even more eager than the men to attack their foes.

PETITIONS CIRCULATED.

The petitions read:

"We, the undersigned, citizens of East Jaffrey, Keene, Winchendon, Peterboro, Dublin, Greenville and adjacent communities, in the State of New Hampshire, respectfully petition Governor Bartlett, Governor John H. Bartlett, for a second and more sweeping grand jury inquiry into the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean, at his home in East Jaffrey, N. H., on the night of August 15, 1918.

"We respectfully suggest that new evidence has been discovered of sufficient importance to warrant a reopening of the case before the State tribunals. We recommend that the new evidence be added to the old evidence with a view to fastening the arrest and prosecution of the German agents who took the life of the late Dr. Dean, and our patriotic American citizen, because he was attempting to do his duty as counsellor of the State.

"We are of the opinion that the principles involved in this murder demand action by the State in order to safeguard law and order and to protect American traditions and institutions. We feel that failure to do this would debauch American patriotism."

TRUCK LOADED WITH SHOES IS STOLEN

Daring thieves drove off with a huge motor truck loaded with 21 cases of shoes in front of an Essex street wholesale shoe establishment in broad daylight, and are now being sought by the police.

The case is unique because the case one of the most baffling they have had to deal with, as the thieves left no clue and apparently had carefully no one noticed their action.

It was reported to the police that the driver of the vehicle left the truck for a few minutes while he entered the place to ask where he should deliver the consignment. When he returned to the street, in less than two minutes, the truck and contents were gone.

It is believed that the thieves laid in wait until the loaded truck appeared, and then, as soon as the driver went inside, jumped aboard and drove off.

VISCOUNT GREY SPEAKS AT HARVARD MONDAY

Viscount Edward Grey, British Ambassador to the United States, will spend Monday in Boston, stopping quietly at the home of a friend. His only semi-public activity will be a speech at the Harvard Union, where President Lowell will introduce the distinguished Briton. Governor Coolidge is planning to attend the meeting.

WESTERLY, R. I., HAS $200,000 FIRE LOSS

Potter Building Damaged by Blaze That Called for a General Alarm

Westerly, R. I., Dec. 6.—Two hundred thousand dollars' damage was done by fire early today which nearly destroyed the Potter Building, situated on the bridge at Broad and West Broad streets on the Connecticut line. The fire started in the booth of a motion picture theatre on the second floor, and rapidly spread to the rest of the building.

In response to a general alarm rung in at 1:45 a. m., the fire apparatus arrived and prevented spread of the flames to other buildings. The Potter Building was insured.

It was two stories high and owned by a man named Parrwas of New London. The top floor was destroyed, and the street floor wrecked. On the second floor were besides the theatre, a pool and billiard room, Harry Travis, proprietor; the office of Deputy Sheriff Casey, and a barber shop run by Joseph Monte. On the street floor were the clothing store of Ward Sherman, a lunch room, the Westerly Candy Kitchen, a shoe store, run by Max Novogrotsch, and Sweet's grocery store.

The owner arrived today and began immediate plans to rebuild.

COURT HOLDS ALLEGED AYER CIGARETTE THIEF

Ernest W. Herrick of Mt. Vernon street, Fitchburg, was held in $500 bail following his arraignment before Judge Chester Stanton Campbell in the Federal building on the charge of stealing 20,000 cigarettes from a Boston & Maine Railroad freight car at Ayer, where he was employed as brakeman. The cigarettes were recovered by railroad detectives.

CHELSEA UNION WANTS $5 A DAY FOR POLICE

The Chelsea Central Labor Union endorsed the petition of the policemen and firemen of Chelsea for a $5 a day wage, and urged all labor men to give the members of both departments their support on election day. President Reardon appointed a committee of three to watch the proceedings of the Board of Aldermen regarding the rent profiteers.

STARTLING NEW EVIDENCE IN DEAN CASE

To Be Submitted to Governor Bartlett and Council Without Delay

East Jaffrey, N. H., Dec. 6.—Much evidence of a vital nature has been developed by 5 Boston American representatives, with the assistance of the Boston Finance Committee in connection with the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean and the activities of persons opposing prosecution.

This new evidence will be submitted to the Governor and Council without delay. It is sufficiently important to warrant a new grand jury investigation, coupled with the old evidence, much of which was not properly co-ordinated and used at the outset of the inquiry.

Some of it is of a startling nature. Late developments dovetail perfectly with all the earlier evidence in the case.

OFFICIALS WORK IN HARMONY.

Thanks to the revelations made by the Boston American in the Dean case, the State authorities of New Hampshire and the Federal officials are at last working in harmony, and early developments are looked for.

The announcement by Governor John H. Bartlett that Federal officials from Boston had conferred with him in Concord on Wednesday showed that the officials have buried the hatchet and are lining up for concerted action. This denotes progress.

Division Superintendent George E. Kelleher, in charge of the Bureau of Investigation of the United States Department of Justice in Boston, Norman L. Gifford and M. V. Valenburgh, from the same office, were the Federal officials who conferred with Governor Bartlett.

This conference is understood to be the first of a series which are likely to result in early arrests. The Federal officials are known to have renewed with vigor and on a much broader scale previous investigation of the enemy system, of signal lights, and other pro-German operations in this region.

The change of administration in the Department of Justice at Washington is said to have resulted in a renewal of interest in the German spy situation in New England, especially those relating to the murder of Dr. Dean.

In this village and surrounding towns, the Boston American is praised for reopening a case that had been piqued by the Telegraph & Telephone Company. Miss Dorothy Stetson of No. 91 Pine Ridge road, Waban and Miss Ruth Hatch of No. 196 Warren street, Roxbury, have joined the unknown force of volunteer workers.

SUGAR GOUGERS ARE LISTED FOR TRIAL

Evidence Obtained; Federal Grand Jury Acts; Expect 19-Cent Price in January

District Attorney Thomas J. Boynton announced that a number of indictments would be purchased the product at low government wholesale rates and retailed it at exorbitant prices have been listed to appear for trial at the January term of the United States District Court.

Vigorous prosecution of this type of dishonest merchant will be carried on by the District Attorney. The Grand Jury this month will act upon evidence obtained by government agents against some of the offenders.

EXPECTS 19-CENT PRICE.

The local shortage of sugar has become acute in the retail trade, in the wake of the cut of the rest of the Cuban crop from New England confectioners, bottlers and ice cream makers. Only regular customers or purchasers of considerable orders of other foodstuffs are accommodated by the grocers.

Some relief from the shortage is expected by the middle of the month, when Brazilian sugar will begin to come in in considerable quantities. The American Grocers' Society, Inc., a co-operative wholesale house to which many New England grocers belong has purchased 100,000 pounds of the Brazilian sugar, to be delivered in January. Member 19, Chief Manager Bernard Wolff of the Boston branch. He expects that this sugar will be sold to the consumer at about 18 or 19 cents per pound.

WILL NOT EXPORT.

"While the sugar price control is lifted in January," he says, "the shortage will probably be adjusted naturally. American dealers will then pay higher prices; but with high prices there will not be so much temptation to export.

Prices for Cuban raw sugar of the new crop are already quoted at 8 2-4 and 9 cents per pound for January delivery, while some sugar for February delivery has been sold for 8 1-2 cents.

The Lake Butler, from Antilla, Cuba, with 4,700,000 pounds of raw sugar has begun discharging her cargo at the docks of the Revere Sugar Refinery. The Lake Dasaha from Nuquitas, Cuba, with 7,200,000 pounds consigned to the American Sugar Refining Company in South Boston, is due Monday. It is reported that part of the refined product from these shipments will be sent to the Western States or exported.

BERKSHIRE MILLS GRANT PAY RAISE

Pittsfield, Dec. 6.—Woolen manufacturers in Berkshire County today granted an increase in pay to employees of 10 per cent and a half per cent. Ten thousand operatives are affected. The raise, which was unsolicited, makes a total increase of more than one hundred per cent in the past two years. All the mills are running at capacity and some of them overtime.

SELL RED CROSS SEALS BY PHONE

The local Red Cross Christmas Seal campaign is well under way, many new subscribers having been added to the numbers of those who are raising Boston's quota of $72,000. Sales by telephone have assumed a prominent role in the drive. The headquarters at No. 3 Joy street reports that several banks have taken large consignments, as have the Boston stores and local manufacturers. A "flying squadron" composed of young society women has done much effective work in distributing posters and delivering seals.

Boston Society Girls Aid Red Cross Sale of Xmas Seals

Two more Massachusetts towns, Ware and Clinton, went over the top yesterday in the state-wide Red Cross Christmas Seal drive, to raise funds for the battle against tuberculosis. The seals are in growing demand and thousands were sold in different places.

In Boston the working organization was augmented by a new group of fresh young girls, who volunteered for full or for part time. Miss Arline Krey of No. 56 Virginia street, Dorchester, took 10,000 seals; Miss Muriel Bowker of the Copley Square Hotel, took 10,000; Miss Mary Barton of No. 84 Marlboro street, took 10,000; Miss Marjorie Grant of Hyde Park, took 5000; Mrs. Parker Kemble, wife of Lieutenant-Colonel Kemble, took 10,000 and enthusiastically volunteered her services in disposing of the lot at a dance given at the Copley Plaza Hotel.

Miss Rebekah Hobbs, a this season's Sewing Circle girl, sold $200 seals to Thayer, McNeil Company. Miss Dorothy Stetson of No. 91 Pine Ridge road, Waban and Miss Ruth Hatch of No. 196 Warren street, Roxbury, have also joined the unknown force of volunteer workers.

RANDOLPH BANK THEFT ARREST SPURS POLICE

Expect Quick Roundup of Robbers; Man Held in Toledo Tried to Sell Securities

The search for the holdup men, who secured $40,000 in cash and bonds from the Randolph Savings Bank, was renewed with vigor today, following the arrest of the alleged leader, Joseph E. Coughlin, at Toledo, Ohio.

Coughlin, who is a taxi driver, was arrested for attempting to dispose of $9,100 worth of the bonds, at the office of the Northwestern Ohio United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company, Toledo.

Chief Hanley of the Randolph police, who has started extradition proceedings, believes that the remainder of the bond will be rounded up in short order, now that Coughlin is taken.

Coughlin appeared at the Guaranty Company office on Saturday, March 6, and explained that he had received the bonds from Easterners who had won them in a gambling game. The manager recorded the numbers of the bonds, but Coughlin failed to return.

He was seized during a big roundup of sidpected thieves in Toledo, and was held in $15,000 bail for a hearing December 9. The Toledo police have been requested to hold the man for Chief Hanley of Randolph, pending extradition.

Coughlin refuses to discuss the whereabouts of the bonds, and protests his innocence. Louis Faine, manager and attorney of the Toledo Bank Company, with whom Coughlin left a description and the numbers of the bonds, caused his arrest.

Faine says that on November 21 Coughlin showed him a $1,000 U. S. Steel Corporation bond, a $1,000 Montana Power Company bond, a $1,000 Swift & Company bond, 100 American Telegraph & Telephone Company bonds, one New York Central bond, one New Bedford Gas Company bond, one Edison Company bond and four from the Copley Savings Bank and Trust Company.

Coughlin's bail has been fixed at $18,000, which he could not furnish.

MISS MARY PARKER BRIDE AT BEDFORD

Bedford, Dec. 6.—In the Unitarian Church, this noon, Miss Mary Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Parker, became the bride of Dr. Harrison King, son of Mrs. Henry Parsons King, of No. 118 Beacon street, Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody. The bride, who is a member of the 1918 Sewing Circle, was attended by Miss Katharine Parker of Boston as maid of honor and Miss Lena Turnbull of Boston, a bridesmaid. Miss Eleanor Abbott of Boston, who came out last year, and the Misses Katharine Abbott, Harriet Parsons King, Jones and Katharine Lane, all of Boston. The best man was Robert T. Fisher of Brookline, Dr. King's football coach. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons are planning to spend six months in Europe.

PUNISH POLICEMEN CAUGHT IN RAID

Springfield, Dec. 6.—The four police officers arrested early Thursday morning during a gambling raid, have been reduced from grade A to grade C, suspended for thirty days and assigned to thirty hours extra duty without pay, according to the City Police Commissioner. When arraigned for hearing, the officers pleaded guilty to the charge of misconduct unbecoming an officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Judson Lawson are completing a honeymoon trip following their wedding last Tuesday night. The ceremony took place at St. Mark's Church, Brookline. Mrs. Lawson was formerly Miss Mildred Williams, daughter of Mrs. Mary M. Williams of No. 1 Columbia street, Brookline. After the wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Lawson will make their home in Detroit.

YEAST KING'S WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE

Cincinnati, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Julius Fleischmann, society leader, has started divorce proceedings against her husband, multi-millionaire yeast and cereal product king and yeast magnate, political leader, former mayor, globe trotter and sportsman.

Mrs. Fleischmann alleges abandonment and the desire to be free to marry Prince Lucien Murat are several million dollars alimony will probably be made, it is reported.

OLD CITY WORKERS RETIRED ON PENSIONS

Mayor Peters has approved the action of the retirement board of laborers in retiring three employes of the city hospital on pensions of $360 compensation of $360 per year. The men retired are: Eugene D. McCauley, age 65 years, 30 years of service; Michael Four years; Charles J. McLaughlin, age 69, in the service forty-six years; Thomas F. Hayes, age fifty-four, in the service sixteen years.

group of operators in the city. As they are in one of the busiest exchanges in the city they believe their ability to work fast will meet with big success on the tag days.

The "Beach" exchange is one of the largest in the world. It is connected by direct trunk lines with all the larger and most of the smaller exchanges within a radius of fifteen miles of Boston. Two hundred and eighty girls can work in the operating room at one time including 125 at the switchboards. Nearly 17,500 stations are served through "Beach." In one day the operators handle 115,000 outward calls from subscribers in that exchange and 101,000 incoming calls.

PHONE GIRLS TO GIVE.

In addition to helping on next Friday's and Saturday's tag days, the girls at "Beach" will make a big donation to the fund. Miss Beatie O'Neil of No. 19 Eastman street, Dorchester, has been "passing the hat" during the past few days and has already raised a substantial sum. She expects to complete her task today. Beatie's smile has resulted in many a dollar being put in the "hat" which she passed.

Judging from present indications the double tag days to be conducted next Friday and Saturday in Boston, Cambridge, Malden and Quincy will be the biggest ever held in New England by a newspaper. It is expected that thousands of dollars will be dropped into the coin boxes held by comely young women, who will also mean free dinners for hundreds of hungry children.

Girls of sixteen years of age or over, of good reputation, who desire to help poor families get good dinners at Christmas may help materially by selling tags. They should communicate with the basket fund editor at No. 82 Boylston street.

AID ALREADY GIVEN NEEDY.

Money is rolling into the fund in lively fashion but what has been received to date will feed about half the number of needy women and their kiddies to whom we hope to send baskets. The basket fund editor has already placed numerous articles in needy families. These articles came from readers whose hearts were touched by some of the appealing letters printed in the American. A sewing machine, baby carriage, clothing, coal and food have been sent to families through the medium of the basket fund editor.

Persons who believe there is no poverty in Greater Boston this winter should read a hundred or two of the letters which are piling into the American office daily. Investigation of these cases show that a large number of them are worthy ones. An American investigator found a family in South Boston consisting of a widow and six children whose only heat was obtained from pieces of wood the children picked up in dumps and behind stores. This family will receive a basket of food from the American fund and a small amount of coal has already been sent there.

GREENE CO. BOYS AGAIN GIVE.

Employes of the H. V. Greene Company have sent $68.02 to the fund, making a total contribution of $268.02 from the firm. The most recent donation comes from Harry B. Bowe, William Burns, Henry J. Sullivan, Thomas M. Jordan, E. Martin, W. H. Hickey, E. B. Gibson, J. W. Ellis, J. P. O'Brien, F. W. Hagerty, A. C. Berkely and E. F. Webb.

The letter which follows, from the men of Motor Transport Company, 747, at Camp Devens makes us feel proud of our service men and inspired over our already great esteem for them. The writer of the letter clearly shows the significance of a contribution from such a source at this time and we quote his letter in full:

"Dear Sirs: Herewith check for thirty-three and 50-100 dollars as our contribution to the American Christmas Basket Fund. From the enlisted members of Motor Transport Company 747, M. T. C. It is with a great deal of pleasure that we make this contribution to such a worthy undertaking, and it is the source of considerable pride which I have for the organization to know that at this time of the year, when most of us are occupied with thoughts of our families and close friends, we have men in the service who can, and do, remember those who may be in less fortunate circumstances.

"HARRY DIFFENBAUGH,"
"Major, M. T. C."

MORE SAD APPEALS.

A few of the touching letters appealing for baskets follow:

Dear Editor—I am going to ask you for the first time in my life I would send me a basket for Christmas. My husband went away one and one-half years ago and I have never seen him since. I have two small children, one four years and the other eighteen months. My health is poor and it is very hard for us to get along. I do hope you will not forget us for my little ones' sake. Good luck to you in your good work.

Dear Editor—I am a crippled girl and cannot walk. My father ran away from home about six years ago. My mother is sick and we can hardly live on what little money we have. There are five children in our family, and I am thirteen years old and the oldest. We have not had a Christmas dinner since my father left home. We would like to have a Christmas basket this year or we won't have a good dinner this year either. Please don't forget us.

Dear Christmas Basket Fund: I am sending a letter to you to see if in some way you could help another. It is a case where the mother has had to work early morning and scrubbing floors in large buildings. She took sick and just came out of the hospital when her daughter became sick and is in a dangerous condition and expected not to recover. The mother cannot work now, as she has to devote all her time to her twenty-two-year-old daughter. The father works two or three days a week and some weeks does not at all. There are two other children, aged four and seven years, and I am sure that if Santa Claus should forget them it would be a sad home. If you will investigate this case you will surely have the same feeling that I have. Thanking you, I remain

JUST A NEIGHBOR.

FATHER DEAD, MOTHER CRIPPLE.

Dear Editor: I am a boy of eleven years. I have a sister and a brother, nine and fifteen years of age, and brother is the only one working. My father was killed last year. My mother is a cripple and has not been out of the house for four years. I have never asked for help before, but now our old father is dead we have to ask for a basket. We have always given money to this fund. We never thought that we would have to ask for a Christmas basket. So please, dear Editor, do not forget us,

DR. ELIOT GUEST OF EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY

Guests of honor at the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the New England Schools in Jacob Sleeper Hall, Boston Association of Colleges and Secondary University, were President Emeritus Eliot of Harvard, President Faunce of Brown and State Senator George S. Churchill, chairman of the committee on education of the Massachusetts Legislature. A dinner and reception was held at the Hotel Vendome.

This morning a business meeting was held in Jacob Sleeper Hall. Frank W. Nicolson, Wesleyan University, was the chairman's report of the committee on standards for secondary schools, and President Alexander Meiklejohn of Amherst read the chairman's report of the committee on standards for colleges. Senator Churchill discussed the attitude of the State Legislature towards standards or degree-giving institutions.

EUROPE TWICE SAVED BY U. S. CROPS

American Food Enabled the Allies to Hold Out Against Germans

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—American crops saved Europe from destruction—not only once, but twice.

Secretary of Agriculture Houston makes this statement in his annual report, made public today.

America came to the rescue when the allies were against the wall, hard pressed by Germany's military hordes, and furnished the food that enabled Europe to hold out, the report declared. Increased production by the farmers and conservation by consumers made this possible.

Again, after the armistice, the American supplies of food saved Europe from the destruction of starvation, the secretary declared. "But for this contribution it is difficult to see how the allies could have waged war to a victorious conclusion," declared the report.

"The German people experienced partial famine conditions and the collapse of their military power was due in no small measure to the shortage of food."

CUBA PARADISE OF THIRSTY YANKEES

Many Find 'Ill Health' Demands Sea Voyage to 'Isle of Highballs'

By International News Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The combination of Cuba and cocktails is exerting a most powerful pull on monied Americans. Accordint to State Department officials more passports are being issued to that happy-go-lucky isle of sunshine and "suds," horse racing and "horse's necks" than ever before at this season of the year.

This sudden desire for travel is not regarded here as due entirely to America's thirst for a more thorough knowledge of geography. A hankering for a somewhat closer grasp on the highball situation is suspected.

Reasons of health, it is true, are the principal excuse given, and many of the travelers, it is understood, privately admit that their doctors have prescribed a short sea voyage as an essential to feeling good, plus light elbow exercises and alcohol baths, with periods of repose under the palms of Tom Collins' well-known plantation, or the Jackrose ranch.

Railroads leading southward report unusual traffic, and it is believed that in addition to those holding passports others are hopping across from Key West without bothering the State Department.

Passports issued in July to all points outside the United States amount to 6,500. This was the month when restrictions were taken off. Since then the figures have mounted steadily until last month about 11,000 were made out. All these, of course, were not to Cuba, but it is admitted that for some reason more or less subtle the demand for passports to that part of the world is heavier than usual.

Rheumatism Left Him As If By Magic!

Had Suffered Over 50 Years! Now 83 Years, Yet a Big Surprise to Friends Regains Strength Goes out Fishing, Back to Business, Laughs at "URIC ACID" How the "Inner Mysteries" Reveals Startling Facts Overlooked By Doctors and Scientists for Centuries

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army over fifty years ago," writes Mr. Asbelman. "Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost write it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain, my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now, at my age, I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change."

HOW IT HAPPENED

Mr. Asbelman is only one of thousands who suffered for years, owing to the general belief in the old, false theory that "Uric Acid" causes rheumatism. This erroneous belief induced him and legions of unfortunate men and women to take strong treatments. You might as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as to try and get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis or kindred complaints, by taking treatments supposed to drive Uric Acid out of the blood and body. Many physicians and scientists now know that Uric Acid never did, never can and never will cause rheumatism, that it is a natural and necessary constituent of the system, that it is found in every new-born babe; and that without it we could not live!

These statements may seem strange to some folks, who have all along been led to believe in the old "Uric Acid" humbug. It took Mr. Asbelman fifty years to find out this truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," a remarkable book now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this particular trouble.

NOTE: If any reader of the American wishes the book that reveals these facts regarding the true cause and correction of rheumatism, gout, and kindred ailments, which have been overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries, they kindly send a postal card or letter to the author below and it will be sent by return mail without any charge whatever. Cut out this notice lest you forget. If you suffer yourself hand this good news to some afflicted friend. The author of this remarkable "Inner Mysteries" that so many is M. D. Clearwater, No. 424-K Street, Hallowell, Maine.

WANT "VAMPS" PURGED FROM MOVIES

Speakers at Film Club Claim Divorces Are Caused by Sensational Films

There will be no more shooting, divorces, composite mix-ups between man and wife and no more six-reel thrillers in which debauchery is depicted in five reels and virtue in the sixth, if the program discussed at a meeting of the Boston Film Club at No. 30 Huntington avenue, is made effective.

Members of the club say that moving pictures that are being shown today are not what they should be, that there are too many family troubles depicted, too many girl interlopers intruding in domestic relations, too much "rough house" and too much showing up of false trends of philosophy.

Several speakers, including social service workers and representatives of uplift societies, addressed the meeting. They said that the mind of the child, wife, mother and parent are endangered by the pictures now being shown. It was agreed by several of the speakers that the moving pictures are a detriment to the children.

Since prohibition was made effective, according to the speakers, there has been a decided increase in the moving picture business. For this reason they say that the best pictures available should be procured and shown.

Several pictures that were prohibited in other States were shown in Massachusetts, according to one of the speakers, who continued by saying that people in this State should awaken to what the moving pictures should be for the best benefits to the children and to themselves.

Considerable stress was laid on the State of Pennsylvania, where a strict censorship governs all pictures released. Those present intimated that all States should have a similar board to pass on pictures before released for exhibition.

Mrs. J. W. Brackett presided. The speakers included Miss Mary Grey Peck of New York; Miss Amy Woods and Edward H. Chandler.

IRISH FREEDOM BRANCH ENDORSES MASON BILL

The Padraic Pearse Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, at their meeting in Pilgrim Hall, South Boston, unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing the Mason bill which provides that a United States Treasury appropriation be made to pay the salaries of a minister and consuls to the Irish Republic. The resolutions also call upon Senators and Representatives from Massachusetts to support the Mason bill. Copies of the resolves were sent to Representative Mason and to other Congressmen and Senators.

NEW IRISH PLAY COMES TO HOLLIS

Romance still flourishes in the realm of the theatre. It flourishes not alone in the make-believe with the audiences across the footlights, but in the producing end of the business, as is evidenced in the presentation of "John Ferguson" by the Theatre Guild, a unique producing firm of actors and actresses, who select, direct and manage their plays, and in addition to their salaries, receive pro rata their share of the royalties.

The success of "John Ferguson" is an illustration of the fact that producing managers frequently go astray on their valuation of a play, for the manuscript of St. John Ervine's "John Ferguson" was hurled around from cellar to post, being turned down by practically every producer, including the usually astute David Belasco.

It remained for the Theatre Guild, a little band of idealists, playing on the co-operative plan, loyally bound to each other for the sake of dramatic art, to give it a tryout. It was a whopping success from its first performance, and three time during its nine months' run in New York had to seek fresh quarters so as to secure greater capacity for the crowds which wanted to see it. It was rumored at the time of its premier that the Guild had in its coffers by way of cash balance less than $20, and rumor has it now that up to the present their earnings amount to over $100,000, which all goes to prove that nobody knows it all in the theatrical business.

"Betty, Be Good."

Hugo Reisenfeld, the manager of two big picture houses on Broadway, the Rivoli and the Rialto, and the conductor of the big orchestras used in the two houses, makes his debut as a musical comedy composer in "Betty, Be Good," the musical comedy which succeeds William Hodge at the Wilbur next week.

The musical programs have always been a feature of New York's big picture houses, bands almost as large as symphony orchestras being employed, and programs of high-class music being prepared to accompany the films. Reisenfeld has composed numerous orchestral pieces, incidental music, etc., for his theatres, but never before has he tried the musical comedy game.

The veteran librettist, Harry B. Smith, who wrote "Robin Hood," "The Serenade," and recently "Lonely Romeo," supplied the book and lyrics of "Betty." Those who have heard the results of this new collaboration report them very satisfying.

The New Warbrobe Mistress.

For the past week the hugo stage of the Boston Opera House has been given over to the manufacture of the "Frivolities" which will be revealed to the public for the first time tonight.

Not since the old opera days has a production been made here upon such a scale as this review by G. M. Anderson, the "Broncho Billy" of motion picture fame.

The other evening I witnessed part of a rehearsal, went behind the scenes and saw at close range one of the prettiest choruses in some of the most wonderful and expensive costumes ever devised.

One young lady was attired in something constructed entirely of gold fringe, and she was compelled to stand on a sheet of newspaper all the time she wasn't rehearsing for fear any of the precious material be soiled by contact with the boards.

Another girl in a gorgeous evening wrap stood on a trunk, while a plain looking little woman with her mouth full of pins, her sleeves rolled up, and a plain black working suit busied herself with the fit of the garment.

I thought she was the wardrobe mistress, but when she looked up I saw it was Nan Halperin, the star of the entire contraption who was helping out.

The ordinary musical comedy star is pictured having hysterics because some member of the company spoke to her, or because the manager didn't have enough flowers in her dressing room.

But Nan Halperin is no ordinary musical comedy star. She has long been considered the cleverest woman in vaudeville, and she has taken her brain into the Frivolities with her.

Hatch an Author.

Frank Hatch, the veteran actor appearing in support of Miss Alice Brady in "Forever After" at the Plymouth Theatre, figures in the annals of the American stage as a dramatist as well as a Thespian.

In 1913 in collaboration with Lee Arthur he wrote "Putting It Over," and more recently, in collaboration with Robert Holmes "The Blue Envelope."

Unlike many modern playwrights Hatch had many years of practical stage experience before he turned dramatist. He had been an actor even before he came East from his native California in 1870, and made his first New York appearance in the British thriller, "The Bells of Blackmere," wherein Irving was starring.

After many years as a player he joined the forces of William A. Brady, father of the star he is now supporting, in 1900, and in his following ten years aided in directing the production of many of the Brady hits, including the all star revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Sorrows of Satin," "Foxy Grandpa," "Her Majesty," "Lovers' Lane," "The Man of the West" and "Frenzied Finance."

He left the Brady staff in 1900, but returned again three years later, and has since had a prominent part in some one of the Brady pieces each season.

LINE UP ON OTHER SHORE.

A whole host of prominent writers in the magazines seem to have been converted to spiritualism since the war, and it was inevitable that a play dealing so largely with the spirit world would come along pretty soon.

"Smilin' Through" is such a play. The author was clever enough to avoid table tipping, mediums, trances and other devices for which the magazine writers appear to have fallen, and he took the attitude that the dead were just people who didn't look or act any different than the living and who sauntered on or off in much the same way as the living actors.

In the last scene of "Smilin' Through" the old gentleman dies quietly and unostentatiously, and immediately, through an ingenious substitution, his spirit steps out of the wings and stands above the bowed body while his long dead bride, played by Jane Cowl, comes in to greet him as sweetly as one meets a friend after many years. Neither has changed in the least to the eyes of the other, and they walk off hand in hand united in love after fifty years.

Now supposing this old man had loved and lost three or four wives during his long career. To follow out the author's idea they would all be lined up waiting for his arrival on the opposite shore, and since they are so much like what they used to be over there it seems probable there would be a fine row in heaven.

Play Went to the Dogs.

"A few years ago when I made my first tour through the West in "The Prisoner of Zenda," we played Great Falls, Montana, the night after 'Uncle Dick' Sutton's company had played 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' to an audience that tested the capacity of the hall, that in those days constituted the Opera House of this prosperous town," says Howard Gould, who is playing Judge Trumbull in John Golden's production of "3 Wise Fools" at the Tremont Theatre.

"Upon arriving there we were informed that the 'Tom' company was still in town, as the big feature of the show—the bloodhounds—had met with a disaster the evening previous, and thus retarded the immediate continuances of the tour.

"Upon arriving there we were interviewed by the manager, he told me the story. It appeared that the major portion of the audience was composed of 'cattle punchers' and 'sheep herds,' who, accompanied by their dogs, had come miles to witness the performance, and as it always had been the custom, the dogs followed their masters into the auditorium, lying under the wooden kitchen chairs which served for orchestra seats in those days. All went well until Eliza started to cross the ice, then trouble began. The instant the three pure bloodhounds began to bark, the dogs under the chairs realized there were strangers in their midst, and pandemonium broke loose. When the bloodhounds made their appearance on the stage, every dog in the building considered that he or she was specially delegated to attack the intruders, and a grand rush and jump was made upon the stage by the entire phalanx; there the greatest dog fight ever witnessed was enacted, and before the combatants were separated, the 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' company was minus bloodhounds, for the Scotch collies never quit until the intruders were dead.

"That was the last time that dogs were admitted to a performance in Great Falls, and for which many of the sedate residents were truly thankful."

Charlestown Notes.

Quite the most remarkable dancer that has come to us in musical comedy is Jack Donahue, the eccentric stepper who is making a sensation with the new Victor Herbert onus, "Angel Face," at the Colonial. Those who remember the Hitchy Koo show of 1918 will remember him as having done a turn which in the theatre vernacular, "stopped the show." But in this show he has greater opportunities to exploit his singular abilities, and as a stepper he has stepped to the fore as the funniest dancer now on the stage.

For Broadway this is of special interest because he acknowledges this as his natal city. He was born in Charlestown and was one of that historic neck of our city recall him vividly as one of a coterie of youths who were wont to congregate on a certain corner of Rutherford avenue and through many hours of the day step it out in contest with each other for no greater honor than excelling. Though he was educated for a draughtsman, and actually did work with pencil and T square for a time in the Navy Yard, he left the bench and started out in vaudeville. The two or three years he spent in that for many a season, the only break in the rounds of the varieties coming in a musical show produced by A. H. Woods, "The Woman Haters' Club," where he appeared with his wife as a team, being known as the Donahue and Stewart. It was his success with the Hitchcock show that won him renewed engagement, and it is a sure promise that musical comedy henceforth will hold him.

THAT TOE BUSINESS.

Hazel Clements, whose remarkable toe dancing is one of the features of "Good Morning, Judge," at the Shubert, is a graduate of the ballet school of the Metropolitan Opera House. She was little more than a child when she joined the ballet and she is still full of admiration at the training given there.

"The first year I was in the ballet I was not permitted to do anything but flat foot dancing, and for this I received $15 per week during the opera season. The next year was a little better. The teacher let me hang on the horizontal bar for two hours every day and practice letting my weight rest gradually on my toes. There was a whole season of learning to stand and then dance on my toes, but the third year I became a regular in the ballet with the munificent salary of $25 per week."

Miss Clements met Mr. Cunningham, her present partner, who told her how much better she could do financially in vaudeville, and the partnership resulted which is so successful at present.

A Burlesque Tone Poem.

Haven't you been wondering recently what had become of the passionate press agent? Well, he has a job in burlesque. I print entirely as received this tone poem from the Gayety Theatre. Not a word changed, not an embellishment.

"Ede Mae is a 'Million Dollar Doll,' in fact as well as fancy. Up to a short time ago she was teaching school, but her dramatic and vocal talents, her winsome and magnetic personality, so often displayed at social function, could not be hidden in her home town forever.

"A change came unheralded. While enfolded in the embrace of Morpheus, who is ever reap the soulful dreamer, he enjoyed her sweetest vision. It was a dream of a warm-hearted audience cheering her until the welkin rang because of her triumph in the realm of song.

"She hesitated not an instant in the firmness of her impulse and the essence of her conviction. The strenic allurement of the stage and the admiration and plaudits of a serious public were calls too strong even for her."

So she landed a job in burlesque.

Why Girls Leave Home.

Then there is Ann Myers, who come to Waldron's next week in the Golden Crook company. Her excuse as submitted to the press agent is a good one.

"While journeying from Washington to Pittsburgh to visit her mother she happened to be in the same train with one of the big musical extravaganza companies. In the dining car she met a girl classmate she hadn't seen for five years, and learned that this friend was a member of the troupe.

"But I have not the slightest idea of the show business," said Miss Myers when her friend asked her to join.

"Don't worry," replied Gladys. "You were always a fine looking girl, you are a pretty nifty dancer and you have a fine voice. As soon as we are through our luncheon I will take you back to our car and introduce you to our manager."

Ann accompanied her friend, met the manager, a most agreeable person, like all burlesque managers. She recognized him instantly by his fur coat and diamond ring. She became a member of the company three days after meeting the manager.

What I would like to know is why she waited three days.

Likes His Own Show.

Among the enthusiastic witnesses of the performances of the Boston English Opera company at the Arlington Theatre during the past week has been Mr. Leon A. Berezniak, who is the general counsel for that organization. Mr. Berezniak has such thorough confidence in the movement for the permanent establishment of grand opera in English in this country that he is backing it with the necessary financial encouragement. Called East from Chicago, which city he makes his home, by some big interests with which he is connected, he gave up several evenings to the hearing of "Martha," and what pleased him most was the public response of the audience expressed not its ales and its applause.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE

"John Ferguson," the four-act play by St. John G. Ervine, the young Irish dramatist and novelist, come to the Hollis Street Theatre, Monday, December 8, with the distinction of having given the New York theatre public the greatest sensation of many years.

Presented last March merely for its dramatic appeal by the Theatre Guild, Inc., of that city for an engagement of one week only and without expectation of more than an artistic success, it scored an instantaneous hit and at the end of two months had to be removed to a bigger theatre or an indefinite engagement in order to satisfy the insistent demand for seats. Tragic in the extreme it nevertheless outran the Summer season while plays of lighter mould, designed for hot-weather appeal, opened and closed.

The action of "John Ferguson" takes place in the kitchen of a little north of Ireland farmhouse. Ferguson, a man of stern orthodoxy, tries to reconcile a flood of misfortune with his unswerving belief in Divine justice. Events move rapidly, every moment is tense with action and surprise as the strongly-drawn characters move in and out like shuttles weaving a story of absorbing interest.

The same cast which appeared in New York will be seen at the Hollis Street Theatre, viz.: Helen Freeman, Dudley Digges, Gordon Burby, Brandon Peters, Harry Macollum, Lucy Beaumont, Joseph Brennan and Hugh McNeill, together with the New York production intact.

KEITH'S

At Keith's Theatre next week the Marion Morgan dancers will head the bill. They have been creating a furore in New York largely because of the fact that this group of beautiful American girls have been able to produce for the vaudeville stage an act in interpretative dancing such as most people felt was impossible. Their finesse in mimic dancing is indisputable. Much of their success is due to the remarkable manner in which Marion Morgan has been able to co-ordinate the various factors which enter into such subtle and attractive work and weave it into a complete, uniform, every execution, effect. Color scenery, costumes, music and motion. Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, who were stars in the Victor and Fields combination, will be seen in an elaborately staged skit entitled "A Day of Sunshine." Al Raymond, formerly of Raymond and Caverly, in "The United States," entertains rhetorically and in humorous style some of the gravest questions of the day—to the satisfaction of himself and the audience.

WALDRON'S CASINO

Burlesque of the clean, wholesome kind, with funmaking by versatile and accomplished comedians, will be offered to the patrons of Waldron's casino all next week, by "The Golden Crook Company." This company will introduce many novelties new to burlesque and with a capable cast of performers, an excellent performance is assured. The show is a merry melange in two parts; it is declared chock full of rapid-fire comedy, jingling numbers and pretty ensemble dances in profusion. The stellar comedy role is in the hands of the well-known tramp comedian, Billy Arlington.

ARLINGTON THEATRE

"Carmen," one of the most famous of all modern operas, will be given for the fifth week of the Boston English Opera Company's season at the Arlington Theatre. The response of the public to this opportunity to hear and see the greatest of operatic productions that include not a few of the world's masterpieces has been liberal during the opening weeks of the season.

Associated with the names of many famous singers, "Carmen" has few rivals either in the romantic significance of its plot or in the dramatic vigor of its music. Its scenes are in the Spanish city of Seville, and Carmen herself is a girl in a cigarette factory who is in love with Don Jose. There will be a double cast of principals, who will sing at alternate performances of "Carmen" on the Arlington stage during the coming week. Miss Elaine de Sellem and Miss May Hamlin will appear in the title role, with Joseph F. Sheehan and Leonard Sanford as Don Jose, Hazel Eden as Micaela, Stanley Deacon and William F. Northway as Escamillo, Alice May Carley as Mercedes, Bertrand Austin as Zuniga, Philip Fein as Remendado and Harold J. Geis as Zuneiga.

WILBUR

Hugo Riesenfeld will come to Boston to conduct the opening performance at the Wilbur Theatre on Monday night, of "Betty, Be Good," his first musical comedy. In him, Harry B. Smith, that dean of playwrights has found a new genius for lyric music for his lyrics, and the combination has proven a most happy one.

Headed by Josephine Whittell, last seen here in Giorlanna, the cast is an exceptional one. As Betty, Miss Whittell captivates and charms throughout three acts of uproarious farce, aided and abetted by Eddie Garvie, late of "Listen, Lester" and who vie with each other to pay the fascinating Betty every attention.

Irving Beebe, who was a favorite here last Summer as a member of the Carl Hunt Players at the Plymouth, plays a strong role.

From his bride on their wedding night, Georgia Manatt, who was a favorite in Boston in "Take It From Me," plays the bashful bride. Frank Crumit, known as the One-Man Glee Club in vaudeville, is seen in a role ideally suited to him, while Josie Intropidi, last year with "Potash and Perlmutter," plays a role ideally suited to her. Lucille Manion, Sammy Evans and others in addition to the famous dancing team of Frances Grant and Ted Wing will be seen. A chorus of unusual beauty, quality and youth wear beautiful gowns.

GAYETY THEATRE

"The Million Dollar Dolls," the beauty show with a million dollar quality reputation and a million friends and allies, is to be the attraction at the Gayety Theatre next week. It has an entirely new scenic and costume equipment, and the patrons of this popular playhouse will have an opportunity of witnessing what is said to be one of the most meritorious and deserving attractions on the Columbia Amusement Company's circuit.

The cast is headed by the clever, grotesque, eccentric acrobatic comedian, Cliff Bragdon, and the young and beautiful California prima donna comedienne, Edie Mae, burlesque's most promising debutants. They will appear in a new two-act musical melange by A. Douglas Lavrill, entitled "In a Whirl of Pleasure," staged and rehearsed under the personal direction of the wizard of burlesque stagecraft, John G. Jermon.

The producers devoted more than the usual efforts in securing a cast of exceptional musical, dancing and acting ability. The show, in two parts, is said to be extremely humorous, but it also contains deftly interwoven if select pure farce seldom found in burlesque.

"THREE FACES EAST"

The attraction at the Tremont Theatre beginning Monday December 8, will be "Three Faces East," presented by Cohan & Harris. It is described as a play of adventure connected with the secret service and written by Anthony Paul Kelly, who has attained high eminence as an author of screen scenarios, this being his first contribution to the legitimate stage. Its reception by New York audiences throughout a two run in the metropolis stamps the play as of special merit.

McCORMACK

John McCormack will include in his program tomorrow afternoon in Symphony Hall several songs that are new to the concert stage of Boston. From the local management it is learned that the great tenor's popularity is even more marked, judging by the enormous demand for tickets for tomorrow's concert.

McISAAC says that

JANE COWL at the Park Square in "Smilin' Through" is offering a romantic and fantastic comedy of a type new to the stage. It deals with this world and the other one.

"ANGEL FACE," Victor Herbert's melodious and lively operetta, begins another prosperous week. Herbert himself will conduct the orchestra Monday night.

"JOAN OF ARKANSAW" at the Majestic is the most musical production of Arthur Hammerstein. Its setting and costumes are the last word in artisticness.

"GOOD MORNING, JUDGE," is a rollicking musical comedy based upon Pinero's farce, "The Magistrate." New York cast, original production, worth seeing.

"THREE WISE FOOLS" at the Tremont announces the last fortnight. A wholesome and attractive melodramatic comedy skillfully played.

ALICE BRADY in "Forever After," a very sentimental play by Owen Davies, gives her film admirers a glimpse of the real Alice.

SEVEN MEN IN YOUNG FILM

Seven leading men in one picture should prove a distinct novelty. As a rule, one matinee hero is sufficient to satisfy the demands of an interested public, but in the case of "Eyes of Youth," in which Clara Kimball Young is starred, it was found necessary, because of the numerous angles of this big dramatic story, to provide seven leading men to carry out the big role of the production. They came from all corners of the United States. Harry Garson, the producer of "Eyes of Youth," which has its first showing exclusively at the Waldorf Theatre this week, combed the American stage and screen for eligible leading men and prominent names will part every role of the play. From New York, Garson secured Edmund Lowe, who plays the romantic lead in "Eyes of Youth," opposite Miss Young. Last season Mr. Lowe was leading man for Florence Reed, and is a Broadway favorite. From New York, also, came William Courtleigh, to create the great character role of Jwole Salve, the Mephisto-like grand opera impresario in "Eyes of Youth." From the far Northeast came Ralph Lewis and Gareth Hughes, both famous on stage and screen alike. Lewis, whose wonderful work as Governor Stoneman in "The Clansman" will not soon be forgotten, is Robert Goring, and Hughes is Kenneth Ashling, the younger brother of the heroine in the picture. Vincent Serrano as the East Indian Yogi and Milton Sills as the selfish, heartless suitor, create two of the best characterizations they have ever given the screen.

Dazzling Gowns

Screen beauties parading in magnificent costumes have had a new standard set for them by Gloria Swanson, who plays the part of the heroine in the new Paramount-Artcraft super-production, "Male and Female," now featured at the Park Theatre.

Belles of the shadow stage and charming gowns are common enough. What makes Miss Swanson's appearance in this new Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece exceptional in every respect is the wonderful variety of costumes involved. Which of two particular gowns is the more stunning is a question that only some great authority like Paquin or Lucile Duff Gordon could decide. One of these splendid creations is a regal evening gown bordered with pearls, which the beautiful heroine wears in the scene depicting the glories of ancient Babylon. This scene, representing Bill Crichton's vision of himself as an Oriental monarch and Lady Mary's assembly as his alluring Christian slave, is full of semi-barbaric splendor, of which this quite indescribable gown, and the wondrous white peacock headpiece which goes with it, forms the crowning feature.

But it is rivaled by the superb black evening gown, richly embroidered with black jet and white pearls, worn by Lady Mary when the escapade on the mid-Pacific island is over and Lord Loan and his party return to London. In this black and white gown, which illustrates the fashion plate which London society is celebrated, Miss Swanson makes a picture worthy of the brush of Sargent.

No Wedding Bells for Her.

A few weeks ago there appeared in a Los Angeles newspaper an item that Ethel Clayton, film star, was married yesterday to ——.

Immediately friends of Ethel Clayton, the motion picture star, began telephoning and conveying in person their congratulations. The press and screen actress was completely mystified and suspected a conspiracy. To the excited publicity man, who felt chagrined that he hadn't been tipped off to the big event, Miss Clayton said:

"Is this somebody's strange idea of a joke? I'm not married, and don't expect to be. And I really am in the best position I know. No, the good looking young man with whom you have seen me on the street is not my husband or my fiance. I admit I love him, though. He is my brother."

Later Miss Clayton saw the misleading item herself and appreciated the joke.

The pretty star is coming to the Modern and Beacon next week in her new Paramount-Artcraft picture, "More Deadly Than the Male," which was directed by Robert G. Vignola.

Try It On Your Cat.

An ingenious little lady has written the management of Tremont Temple, where Mary Pickford in "The Hoodlum" starts upon the seventh week of the Boston engagement, asking for very singular information.

The letter in question asks very seriously for advice as to just what methods were taken to have the cat shown in the first part of the picture act the way it does, and inquires as to what brand of intoxicant would produce similar effect upon the home cat of hers, which bears a striking likeness to the Pickford baby. It will be remembered by those who have seen "The Hoodlum" that Amy Burke's pet cat, which enjoys following Mary Marlin in Amy's grandparent's palatial mansion, suddenly goes on a joy jag, which puzzles Amy considerably, the while it affords intense amusement to spectators of the picture, and it was the inquisitive little lady's curiosity that led her to inquire what intoxicants would produce the effect.

The management, by politic inquiry of the director, learned that this particular tabby is a trifle addicted to do somersaults and all sorts of acrobatic feats.

Never Resents Any Role.

Norma Talmadge, whose special production, "The Isle of Conquest," will be shown for the first times in Boston the first three days of the coming week to Loew's Orpheum Theatre, is, at first glance, just a flirtatious, beautiful, talented, American girl, like dozens of other pretty young women, but to the careful observer her intensity is her distinguishing characteristic. Back of those dark, smouldering eyes and that blood-red, sensitive mouth, is a girl of big, generous impulse, keen emotions, strong ambitious and true artistic sense.

Norma Talmadge and all her schoolmates were stage-struck. Only Norma was in deadly earnest. She went to the Vitagraph studio and obtained a small part. From that time on her rise has been rapid and sure. Norma's fame did not come easily or suddenly—she began at the very bottom and worked hard. She played all sorts of roles before greatness came, striving always to "live the blood" each character's veins.

Now, of course, it is easier, for she chooses most of her parts. "Still," she says, "I have never resented any role assigned to me, no matter how distasteful, for I realized that each would bring me an understanding of another side of human nature. Only by sheer hard work, careful study and keen, unflinching self-analysis can the ruthless path to success and stress be sure of reaching the height of success.

"The safest and surest way to the heart of the public is earnest effort, which is but another way of saying that we must do more than command success—we must deserve it."

"The Unknown Purple."

A stage trick which has astounded thousands of theatregoers who have witnessed Rupert Wenze play of mystery, "The Unknown Purple," during the engagement all last season at the Lyric Theatre, New York, is the effect of a purple ray which makes one of the characters in the play invisible before the very eyes of the audience. It is easily seen that the effect is produced with an electrical contrivance, but just what sort of an arrangement Mr. West has invented is far beyond the comprehension of the mechanical layman. The theatre mechanics are not enlightened either, as the company carries a special switchboard, which is installed in the orchestra pit, screened back of a heavy cloth. Three expert electricians control this board, which operates the lighting effect, assisting this play to produce one thousand and fifty thrills in one hundred and fifty minutes.

WALDORF THEATRE

"Eyes of Youth," the first big special production to be made by Clara Kimball Young, adapted from the celebrated stage success by Max Marcin, will be shown for the first time in Boston exclusively at the Waldorf Theatre, Tremont and Berkeley streets, this week. "Eyes of Youth" is the first of four superproductions to be made by Miss Young this year, regardless of time and consumed or expense incurred. "Eyes of Youth," under this policy, required four months to film and cost a quarter of a million dollars. Albert Parker, who directed the best Douglas Fairbanks pictures, directed "Eyes of Youth," and Harry Garson has surrounded Miss Young by a powerful cast, including such famous as Milton Sills, Gareth Hughes, Pauline Starke, Sam Sothern, Ralph Lewis, Edmund Lowe, Norman Selby, Lionel Belmore, William Courtleigh and Vincent Serrano. In this picture Miss Young has three leading men, namely Milton Sills, Ralph Lewis and Edmund Lowe, who play the three rival suitors. The work of William Courtleigh is the East Indian Yogi from the Himalaya mountains, rates high among the characterizations upon the screen. The story deals with the problem of knowing the right thing to do—whether to sacrifice one's happiness for others or to choose the career that means the soul's highest development. This is the problem that confronts Gina Ashling, played by Miss Young.

LOEW'S GLOBE THEATRE

Two feature photoplays of multiple reels shown for the first time in Boston will be included in the coming week at Loew's Globe Theatre. Norma Talmadge appears in "The Isle of Conquest," a photoplay unfolded in six reels telling a story of the young girl forced into marriage with an old but wealthy member of society, her mother's choice, and the subsequent sliding of their yacht in mid-ocean. The youthful bride is cast up on a desert island in the company of the girl's lover, supposedly the only survivors. A thrilling love tale ensues, only to be interrupted by a rescue party. The outcome furnishes a delightful romance. In this production Miss Talmadge stands paramount and her work is supreme in the entire picture. Another feature photoplay will be shown in addition to Miss Talmadge's picture.

SCOLLAY SQUARE OLYMPIA

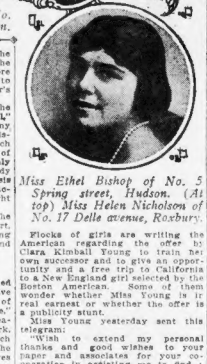
"The Flame of the Yukon," starring Dorothy Dalton, will be the feature pictures next week at the Scollay Square Olympia. "The Beauty Vendor" heads the bill of vaudeville, followed by Lew Hoff, the man with the hats; the Sterling Saxophone Four; Regal and Mack in "The Book Shop," and Evelyn and Margaret, a petite and versatile pair. Added to the popular Olympia News Weekly and a new comedy complete the bill.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA

Because of tremendous popular demand, Hal Reid's magnificent photoplay spectacle, "The Confession," will be given a second week's showing this week at Gordon's Olympia.

The vaudeville program is headed by Captain Bell's Seals, a group of aquatic wonder-workers, followed by Helena Vincent, in songs and stories; Helen Gleason and company, in "State Room 13"; Adams and Griffith, in "A Music Lesson," and Madame Ayre, in popular songs.

Miss Mona A. Leonard of No. 105 Milton street, East Dedham.



Miss Ethel Bishop of No. 5 Spring street, Hudson. (At top) Miss Helen Nicholson of No. 17 Della avenue, Roxbury.

MOVIE QUEEN PROMISES TO KEEP AGREEMENT

Flocks of girls are writing the American regarding the offer by Clara Kimball Young to train her own successor and to give an opportunity and a free trip to California to a New England girl selected by the Boston American. Some of them wonder whether Miss Young is in real earnest or whether the offer is a publicity stunt.

Miss Young yesterday sent this telegram:

"Wish to extend my personal thanks and good wishes to your paper and associates for your cooperation in assisting me to find a successor. You may be sure I will keep my agreement.

"CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG.

"Los Angeles, Dec. 5."

These are the specifications:

Age, over seventeen and under twenty.

Eyes, blue.

Hair, brown or black.

Weight, 118 to 125.

Education, high school.

Experience, none wanted.

Parental consent in writing.

Temperament, emotional.

WILL FURNISH PICTURES.

Gus White, the photographer, Tremont and Avery streets, has volunteered to make one photo free for aspirants who wish to enter the contest, but only when they present a letter from the manager of the Waldorf Theatre.

The American will assist the young candidates for Miss Young's throne and will publish photographs of the most attractive entries. Send photos with letters not more than 100 words in length to the photoplay editor, Boston American.

STEINERT HALL

Mrs. Marguerite (Wagniere) Horton is fulfilling her early announcements of new or rarely-heard piano pieces for her piano recital on Tuesday afternoon, December 16, at Steinert Hall. Her own "Suite Helvetique" will receive its first public presentation, as will also two pieces by Dohnanyi. The sonata in A major by Cadman also receives its first Boston presentation at her hands. Among other composers on the program are Clayton Johns, Mrs. Beach, Reginald de Koven and Granados.

A new composition for twelve violoncellos by Mr. Stuart Mason, local composer, musician and critic, has the good fortune to be chosen by the jury for its first presentation at the first concert of the new Boston Musical Association. The rendition of the work will be anticipated with interest, both on account of its novelty and its introduction of a new composer by a newly-organized force of orchestral players. Miss Mary Kent has been selected for the voice part of Ravel's modern "Three Poems After Mallarme"; Miss Gertrude Marshall will be the soloist in Beethoven's "Romance" in F for violin and orchestra, while Miss Claire McGlinchey will play the piano parts in Saint-Saens' "Wedding Cake" waltz.

MALDEN AUDITORIUM

"Clarice," a comedy of love, youth and romance, written by William Gillette, whose phenomenal success as a playwright is equaled by his histrionic abilities, will be offered the coming week by the Temple Stock Company organization at the popular Malden Auditorium. It is full of human appeal and brimming over with bright, sparkling humor, but to tell the story would spoil the keen enjoyment awaiting the patrons of this theatre. The play served William Gillette as starring vehicle for several seasons and it is one of his best work. Miss Adelyn Bushnell will assume the leading role, which was originally created by Marie Doro.

"MALE AND FEMALE"

Monday begins the last week of the Boston engagement of "Male and Female," Cecil B. DeMille's wonderful photoplay version of Barrie's "The Admirable Crichton," which is proving itself the most popular screen play of the season at the Park Theatre. "Male and Female" is produced on a lavish scale, employing a wonderful cast of players in a drama of more than ordinary interest.

RACHMANINOFF

Rachmaninoff, foremost among the world's pianists of today, and equally famed as a composer of pianoforte compositions, comes to Symphony Hall for his second concert of the season, a week from tomorrow, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 14th. Three Russian composers are represented on his program; Rubenstein, Scriabine, and his own four etudes, opus 39.

ATTRACTIONS AT BOSTON THEATRES

MODERN AND BEACON

A program of unusual merit will be shown at the Modern and Beacon next week, the feature of which will be Ethel Clayton in "More Deadly Than the Male." A Thomas H. Ince special, "Behind the Door," and a Mack Sennett comedy, "The Ladies' Tailor" complete the bill.

"More Deadly Than the Male" provides just the right sort of a vehicle for Ethel Clayton, who enters into the spirit of its bold adventures with just the right degree of viciousness, and she has the physical charm to make it convincing. Accordingly, Miss Clayton has the role of an actress-manager who urges an old friend, a retired adventurer, to settle down to some useful occupation, telling him that there are more thrills, adventures in every day life than can be found in the African wilds.

Thomas H. Ince has put forth another triumph in his latest special, "Behind the Door," which brings back to the screen as a star, that sterling actor, Robert Bosworth. This wonderful film affords Bosworth a highly dramatic role and the supporting company, including Jane Novak, Wallace Beery, Otto Hoffman and J. P. Lockney, acquit themselves with merit. Completing the bill is the latest Mack Sennett comedy, "The Ladies' Tailor."

LOEW'S ORPHEUM

The coming events for the initial half of the week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre have been chosen in a manner quite becoming to the management. Jimmy Burke and Eleanor Durkin, styled as "A Boy, A Girl, A Piano and Some Songs," will in their usual custom bring a repertoire of up-to-date songs and deliver them in their own inimitable way and the piano plays no small part in their numbers. Antoinette Crawford and Company will give their work while comedy playlet, being their interpretation of "A Perfect Day." It is a wonderful chance for theatregoers to give vent to their storage up laughter. Monte and Lyons, are always welcome in their amusing character nonsense and musical bits. Others on the program are Joe and Sadie DeLier in "Brilliant Bits of Variety," Mahoney and Rogers in "A Sea Shore Flirtation" and The Flying Weavers in daring aerial specialties. The first Boston showings of Norma Talmadge's superproduction "Isle of Conquest" and a Mack Sennett comedy will complete the bill.

"EVERYWOMAN"

An announcement of more than usual interest comes from the Park Theatre in a statement that Walter Browne's great stage success, "Everywoman," has been made into a magnificent photoplay, which will begin a limited engagement at the Park Theatre, Monday, December 15th. Theatre-goers of a few years ago will remember Henry Savage's production of this wonderful stage play, and they will be more than anxious to see the screen version, which has been elaborated upon owing to the scope of the camera until it has been pronounced, by critics at the private showing, one of the screen masterpieces of all times.

TREMONT TEMPLE

Mary Pickford, in "The Hoodlum," at Tremont Temple, continues to run merrily along with never a let-up in patronage, and the attraction begins the seventh week with every sign of continued great success. Its attributes are so many and create such a wide appeal that this long life as an attraction furnishes no wonder.

LOEW'S COLUMBIA

Another week of screen favorites has been arranged for the patrons of Loew's Columbia Theatre, Washington and Motte streets, and next Monday Gladys Leslie will head the bill in "The Golden Shower." Mildred Harris (in private life Mrs. Charlie Chaplin) will also be shown in "The Doctor and the Woman."

GRAINGER TO GIVE CONCERT THURSDAY

Percy Grainger, the composer-pianist, will give a recital in Jordan Hall under the management of A. H. Handley next Thursday afternoon, December 11th. Grainger is an Australian by birth, but he enlisted in the American army when the war broke out and was soon promoted to be drum major of a big army band.

As a pianist he is the most picturesque since Paderewski, and as a composer his gift of melody has caused him to win places on the program of many eminent pianist and violinists.

His programs are always unconventional. For next Thursday it includes numbers by Bach, Busoni, Cyril Scott, Debussy, Steinert, Brockway, Dett and Grainger.

WOMEN FIND WAR JOBS HARD TO HOLD

London, Dec. 6.—Women who went out and got war-time jobs to supplement their dwindling incomes are finding it hard to keep a toe-hold on their positions.

Men are pushing women out wherever they can, especially in offices.

Complaints are heard from women clerks on all sides. A guild that watches the interests of male bank clerks has decided that services of women should be dispensed with entirely in all London banks, and the matter will soon be brought before the bank directors. Women workers, who say they don't earn their living from choice, but because they must, are incensed.

SEE PERIL IN U. S. ARMY OF ONLY 965 FLIERS

Dependent on Europe for Planes in Event of War, Says General Mitchell

By Universal Service.

Washington, Dec. 6.—From a force of 150,000 men, including nearly 15,000 trained fliers at the time of the signing of the armistice, the army air service has been allowed to disintegrate to a point where only 965 aviators now remain available for duty.

Brigadier-General William Mitchell, director of military aeronautics, revealed this startling condition to the aviation sub-committee of the House Military Affairs Committee, which is considering legislation to establish a separate air department.

The situation is such, General Mitchell said, that in the event of war with Mexico, the United States would find itself dependent upon Great Britain and France for effective fighting aircraft.

While the War Department has done virtually nothing towards the development of aviation since the armistice, the committee was told, such advancement has been made in Europe that all of the army's flying equipment, which was considered the best in the world a year ago, today is obsolete.

Responsibility for the failure of the United States to keep pace with the other countries was placed squarely upon Congress. General Mitchell said the appropriations made available were so meagre as to prohibit scientific development. Absence of legislation providing for the establishment of a separate air service to co-ordinate all governmental flying activities also was said to have been a contributing factor.

$80,000,000 NEEDED.

The director of military aeronautics is an enthusiastic advocate of a combined air service. Questioned with regard to the expenditure necessary to put the United States on an equality in the air with the great nations of the world, General Mitchell said:

"To do this, I believe $80,000,000 will be needed this year and no less than $50,000,000 for each year thereafter. Congress last year, for all air services, gave only $40,000,000, and with the $25,000,000 of this which the army received we found we could do no more than keep up the regular stations and a patrol along the border.

"Co-ordination under one head of army, navy, postal and commercial aviation is absolutely necessary to its successful development. Under the present system each branch of the government must maintain separate training schools, buys separately and conducts independently experiments which require large expenditures, but are necessary to the progress of aviation.

TIME TO BUILD UP.

"Lack of a concrete policy with respect to the air service has been a big factor in the disintegration of the service. Our best men have left us because there has been no definite promise of the extent to which they will be needed.

"It will take a year and a half, under favorable circumstances, to build the air service up to the strength that a country like the United States requires.

The number of American aviators in active service and in the reserve corps at the time of the armistice, General Mitchell said, was equal to one-third of the total number in the world. Now only about 25 per cent of the fliers in this country are in the reserve corps and not over 3 or 4 per cent. went into civilian flying.

MEXICO IMPORTING PLANES.

General Mitchell said he had heard there were twenty-four airplanes in Chihuahua, Mexico, six months ago and that the Mexican government was importing planes from Germany and France. He gave the committee some confidential figures upon the actual strength of the Mexican air forces and stated that an order for 12 planes recently had been negotiating with European nations for the purchase of more modern ones.

Most of the Mexican machines are driven by German pilots. The General had heard. They are good, capable men without jobs in their own country," he added.

Representative LaGuardia, of New York, chairman of the sub-committee, asked the Air Service if he was aware of the mission to Europe of Candido Aguilar, Carranza's personal representative.

ITALY REFUSED TO SELL.

Aguilar left for Europe, after his stay in Washington, Mr. LaGuardia said, ostensibly for medical treatment, but was provided with Carranza ordinary powers and went incognito to Rome, where it was later discovered that he was trying to buy airplanes, which Italy refused to sell.

After leaving Italy, Mr. LaGuardia went on, Aguilar purchased planes from a factory in Liege, Belgium, until the United States protested.

General Mitchell said "he had heard of this."

The air service director told the committee that most of the airplane factories in this country, which were running at top speed during the war, have been idle ever since the armistice. He added:

BIG PLANT IS IDLE.

"The plant at Garden City, L. I., for instance, which was government-owned, equipped at great cost for the construction of modern aircraft is now idle and should be leased or sold to some private concern to be operated under government supervision."

A majority of the members of the House Military Affairs Committee indicated that they are in favor of combining all the air services into one separate department. The bill by Senator New, of Indiana, designed to bring this about, was favorably reported by the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Boston Bankers to Dine

At a dinner at the Boston City Club on Tuesday evening next members of the Boston Chapter of the American Institute of Banking will hear Frederick F. Fish on "Industrial Conditions," and Harold B. Wilte late of the Lafayette Escadrille, a famous French army flying corps, will relate "My Escape From a German Prison."

WEAK MADE STRONG AT CHILDREN'S CLINIC

Miss Mabel Skilton, expert dietician, in charge of Berkeley Infirmary and one of her little charges whose chubby appearance shows result of nutrition treatment at Boston clinic.

Watch the future champion heavyweights of America tip the scales at the Nutrition Clinic for Delicate Children!

The youngsters who flock there every week and follow the advice of the nutrition experts will never need be afraid their children will die with dosen of cod liver oil and the other dread concoctions that our grandmothers used to brew when we were underweight. Instead, they receive directions for a normal, nourishing, palatable diet; and that course, provided that physical obstructions to ill health are removed, brings hale and hearty results.

GIVEN NOURISHING FOOD.

Little children of all ages and races who are under the normal weight for their height sit in a special class, and listen wisely to the directions which will make them plump and bright-eyed. They are not urged to all eat alike; the natural home diet is made a basis for more nourishing food.

If Johnny doesn't like oatmeal, he isn't ordered to open his mouth and have mother choke it down with a spoon. Perhaps he likes corn mush better; and with plenty of milk, it makes him a very satisfactory breakfast.

If Mary wants a hot drink in the morning, cocoa will be much nicer than coffee; and perhaps it will help to gain the extra pound that will bring her the coveted health diploma that all the children receive when they have reached normal weight.

Each week the youngsters are measured and weighed, and an individual chart is kept to show the improvement. Sometimes they gain as much as two pounds a week and they are very happy to see the red line go higher and higher.

HAS FOUNDED MANY CLINICS.

Miss Mabel Skilton, expert dietitian and authority on children's diseases, is in charge of the work at the Berkeley Infirmary, No. 44 Dwight street. She is well known in her profession all over the country, and has done special work in the West to establish these clinics. She is the originator of the Boston Clinic, which she founded seven years ago, and since that time her efforts have brought about the founding of many others, in the large cities of the country.

She has gained the confidence and interest of the children, and through her enthusiasm the work has progressed until it now holds an important place in the health and welfare of the community.

FAVORS YEARLY INCREASE FOR TEACHERS

Chairman Sullivan Says President Campaign for $600 Raise Is Flareup

Admission that the teachers deserved a raise in salary was made by Judge Michael H. Sullivan, chairman of the Boston School Committee, at the annual meeting of the New England Teaching Association of the College Teachers of Education in the lecture hall of the Public Library.

He said, however, that such advances in pay should be made each year and only after careful consideration. He declared that the present campaign of the school teachers to secure a $600 raise was only a flare-up.

Papers were also read by Superintendent of Schools Nickerson of Medford and Superintendent of Schools Clark of Somerville. They both advocated the granting of a raise to the teachers.

Judge Sullivan stated the present salaries of the teachers constitute 75 per cent. of the school expenditure. He believes, however, that it should be 85 per cent. of the total expenditure. Speaking of the cost of running the city he explained that $3,300,000 was spent annually for the fire and police departments, more than $1,000,000 for the health, recreation and park departments, while less than $7,000,000 was awarded for education. He expressed his opinion that educational expenditures should be placed at least on a par with other expenditures.

He further stated that if the campaign of education of the public was carried out on sane and safe lines the needs would be met. "There will be no difficulty in getting public funds for education if the campaign is carried out in the right manner."

Petition to the Legislature to Grant Boston School Teachers $600 Salary Increase

Sign this petition and get your friends to sign it.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of Massachusetts:

The undersigned, believing that the demand of the school teachers of Boston for a salary increase of $600 per year is justified, respectfully petition you to enact at the earliest possible time legislation which will permit the city of Boston to grant their demand.

ASSERTS EXCESS PROFITS BOOST PAPER COST

Dodge Says Merchants Put Millions Into Ads to Dodge Income Taxes

By Universal Service.

Paris, Dec. 6.—"Excess profits and income taxes are directly responsible for the high cost of print paper," declared Philip Dodge, president of the International Paper Company and of the International Mercantile Marine, today.

"Manufacturers, retailers and commission merchants, instead of paying the Government their share of the excess of their wealth to the government, are sinking it in advertising. Thousands are now lavishly advertising that never advertised before.

SIZE OF PAPERS INCREASED.

"The result is that the publishers have increased the size of their papers. America is the only country that refuses to protect its own citizens. We have thousands of acres of standing timber in Canada which we are unable to import into the United States owing to the Canadian prohibition. As a result we are building mills in Canada, employing Canadian labor, Canadian power and Canadian transportation, thus enriching a foreign country at the expense of our own.

"I have just returned from Germany after a week of careful examination of the situation. While we could sell paper to Germany at bigger profits than in the United States, we have refused to do so, preferring to supply our home market first.

"The Allies are stupidly harsh against Germany. We are taking a man's note and then bankrupting him—that's unbusinesslike, suicidal and ridiculous.

GET MEAT ONCE A MONTH.

"Confiscation by the allies of dredges is paralyzing Hamburg and other German ports. I have seen thousands of Germans working night and day in factories striving to increase production despite the fact that they were half-starved. They get meat once a month, their other meals consist of cabbage and mouldy potatoes. Germany is making a determined effort for her recovery. Personally, I believe the allies are cutting their own throats by their policy of preventing Germany from paying her bills."

Consumption of Wool

Clothing manufacturers in this country consumed 60,000,000 pounds of wool in October, according to Department of Agriculture statistics.

WET CHRISTMAS HOPED FOR BY GALLIVAN

Bay State Congressman Obtains Hearing on Measure December 10

Washington, Dec. 6.—An old-fashioned "wet and white" Christmas. This is the fervent hope springing from the breast of Representative James A. Gallivan of Massachusetts.

Almanac experts who base their pronostications on other things than scientific instruments used by Uncle Sam's weather bureau, already arep redicting snow for the Yuletide season.

WOULD REPEAL DRY LAW.

And now comes along the Massachusetts Congressman with an effort to start the legislative machinery moving toward the release of John Barleycorn in time to enliven the festivities.

Mr. Gallivan secured from Chairman Hauger of the House Agriculture Committee an agreement to call a meeting of the committee for December 10 to consider a request for hearings on the Gallivan bill to repeal war-time prohibition. Once hearings are granted, the Massachusetts member believes he can supply ample reason why the ban should be lifted.

Pointing out that the objects for which the emergency act was passed have been accomplished and the treaty situation indicates no hope of relief from that quarter, Mr. Gallivan said:

U. S. TO LOSE $500,000,000.

"I am informed by high officials in the Treasury Department who ought to know that unless war prohibition is repealed in the very near future the government stands to lose $500,000,000 in direct returns to the Internal Revenue Department, in addition to many unknown millions which would be paid to the government in the shape of income taxes, excess profits taxes, etc.

"On top of this, the same officials advise me that over a billion dollars loss will accrue to men who have been interested in lawful conduct of the liquor trade. I am positive that the country is not willing to see this enormous loss sustained by both the government and the citizens of this country when it can be avoided by the lifting of war-time prohibition.

"President Wilson made it clear in his veto message of October 27 that a proper distinction between temporary causes which arose out of war-time emergencies and those like the constitutional amendment, which is now a part of the fundamental law of the country, ought to be made. He objected to that part of the Volstead act which provides legislation with reference to war-time prohibition.

URGES EARLY ACTION.

"Prior to his veto, he had sought the repeal of this act at the hands of Congress, and stated clearly that where the purpose of particular legislation arising out of the war emergencies had been satisfied, sound public policy makes clear the reason and necessity for repeal.

"This situation ought to be tackled at once, and the only way to properly handle it is to repeal this act."

STARS IN RECORD'S COAL FUND SHOW

Prominent stars in Boston theatrical circles will participate in a well-balanced entertainment to be given tomorrow evening in the Majestic Theatre under the auspices of the Record Coal Fund. The proceeds from this undertaking will be turned over to the fund now being raised to supply coal to the poor of Greater Boston.

An excellent program has been arranged, the following stars appearing without charge: Claude Gillingwater of the "Three Wise Fools" company; Fay Marbe, prima donna of the "Angel Face" company; Sam Hardy and Henry Lewis of the "Frivolities of 1919"; G. M. Anderson, the "Broncho Billy" of the movies; Ted Lewis, Jean Scanlon, Julia Kelety, Robert Pitkin and Anna Seymour with seven other artists from the "Joys of Arkansaw" company; Shep Camp and George Hassell of "Good Morning, Judge" company; the Sterling Saxophone Four, and other popular entertainers.

ST. PAUL'S, NEWTON, TO HEAR GUTHRIE SUNDAY

Colonel Percy A. Guthrie of the famous McLean Kilties, the spectacular British-Canadian unit recruited in Boston and other cities of the United States for the World War, will speak at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Walnut street, Newton Highlands, Sunday evening, December 7, at 7:30 p. m. Colonel Guthrie, who won an enviable record for gallantry in the World War as a Canadian, has recently become an American citizen. He has transferred the ardent patriotism he showed his mother country to his newly-found mother, the United States.

How keenly he realises his newly-given allegiance he will explain to the members of St. Paul's Church Sunday evening in his address on "Broadening the Church Movement Through Americanization." A special musical program has been prepared.

SOMERVILLE VETERAN ASKS TO BE RETIRED

After twenty-three years as sealer of weights and measures in Somerville, John H. Dussault has asked to be retired.

Mr. Dussault is a Civil War veteran and was badly wounded. He was born in Cambridge but has been a resident of Somerville since 1856. He will be eighty years of age next June.

CARDINAL GIVES $1,000 FOR GYM AT ST. JOHN'S

Cardinal O'Connell has contributed $1,000 toward the erection of a gymnasium of St. John's preparatory school at Danvers as a memorial to graduates of the school who gave their lives for their country during the world war.

The contribution is one of the largest received by William H. Barry, president of the alumni association, who is in charge of the fund.

WOULD HAVE MAYOR NAME POLICE HEAD

A bill was filed in the Senate on petition of Francis J. Finnegan of Boston providing that beginning August 1 next, the Mayor of Boston, and not the Governor, shall have the power of appointing the police commissioner of that city. Under the terms of the measure, the tenure of office would be four years at an annual salary of $5,000. The term of the commissioner in office on the last day of July next would cease on that day.

MILWAUKEE JUDGE TO SPEAK AT FORD HALL

Judge August C. Backus of Milwaukee, who is to speak at Ford Hall tomorrow night, has been invited by the judges of this city to a dinner which will be given in his honor, Monday night, at the City Club. Judge Backus will subsequently address the forum meeting of the club. George W. Coleman is responsible for Judge Backus' visit to Boston. He has gained the title "the Judge Lindsey for grown-ups."

MILTON MAN SUED FOR $6,000 IN AUTO CASE

Elmer P. Fletcher of Milton has been sued for $5,000 by Mrs. Belle M. Enslin of Beverly. She alleges that while riding in an automobile in Lexington she was injured when the defendant's car collided with the one she was in.

Herbert E. Enslin, her husband, sues Fletcher for $1,000 for the loss of his wife's services, medical expenses and also for the damage done to his car in the collision.

BUSINESS MEN BACK FORDNEY TAX MEASURE

"Sales'" Levy Would Eliminate Grievances and Yield $5,000,000,000 Income, It Is Said

Business men and tax experts of Boston are standing firmly behind the Fordney tax bill now before Congress, and generally considered one of the most drastic reforms in tax matters.

The Fordney bill calls for a flat tax of 1 per cent. on all sales transactions to take the place of all other existing taxes on business and incomes. It is estimated that the bill would yield an annual return to the government of $5,000,000,000 if enacted into law.

Already a headquarters has been established in this city, where sales tax adherents are laying plans for an intensive campaign under the leadership of W. C. Gray, expert accountant, and for many years an advocate of tax reform.

CRITICISM WIDESPREAD.

While this organization has not specifically opened its fight for the Fordney bill, it is urging a wide campaign for a sales' tax to take the place of all other forms of taxation.

There are several potent reasons why there is wide-spread criticism of the present complicated system of taxation, it is stated at the Gray headquarters today. The business men, lending their aid to this group, declare that the present system allows attempts to levy taxes upon amounts which cannot be definitely ascertained.

Frederick Hoitt, a tax student and one of the men interested in sales' tax, gives the following reasons why the present system should be changed:

REASONS FOR CHANGE.

1—That it is unsatisfactory because of the great cost to the Government to maintain its system.

2—That it entails an "outrageous expense to business men to make out returns through the employment of expert accountants."

3—That it contributes to the high cost of living, because all concerns charge more for their goods to cover the tax levy.

4—That it discourages new industry and the expansion of existing business.

MINIMIZE COST.

The tax on sales is recommended because:

1—It would minimize the cost of maintenance.

2—Because the tax amount could be ascertained in advance and business men would know how they stand.

3—Because it would eliminate tax dodging.

"The present method is entirely unsatisfactory," declared Attorney Hoitt.

"This is due in part to the great cost to the government of maintaining its present tax system and also the outrageous expense to business men to make out returns through the employment of expert accountants which has become absolutely necessary under the present system.

KEEPS BUSINESS UPSET.

"Not only do accountants have to be employed to set out the original returns, but further information is being constantly requested by the agents, necessitating a reversal of the accountants' services and consequent additional expense in bookkeeping, etc.

"It is almost impossible to ascertain definitely the amount which can be taxed.

"It certainly is one of the chief elements in the high cost of living. Knowing he has this tax to pay, the business man, who has made the investment, knows that the tax must come from the profits of the business. To meet this extra expense he has to jack up the prices of goods to maintain his business. It also keeps his business in an unsettled condition.

"The present system discourages new industry because, through a recent ruling of the department, a man cannot get the information in advance as to what his taxes are to be, or what will be taxable.

FORCED PARTNERSHIP.

"It discourages an extension of present business because, after he has made so much money the government steps in and takes all over that amount away in taxes. The excess energy, in other words to produce more, is not to be rewarded, so there is a lack of interest beyond that point.

"It forces a man into a partnership with the Federal government—a partner without recourse. Generally, a man selects his own partner. But the Federal government takes the profits, but does not share in the losses.

"A tax on sales can be definitely ascertained. There would be under it, no great volume of regulations. It would require a much smaller force to handle the business."

DEAN PORTER TO TALK AT AMERICAN FORUM

What the human factor means in social and industrial progress will be lucidly explained by Dean James R. Porter of Clark College at the meeting of the American Forum in Fenenil Hall tomorrow night. Dean Porter is particularly fitted to discuss the subject of the human factor in social and industrial progress because he was a notably progressive human factor himself when the United States entered the war.

When the call came, Dean Porter worked so that others might progress. He gave up his college work entirely, donned overalls and went to work as one of the men. While helping his country he came to understand better the mind of the industrial worker, since he was one of them, and he already had been well-informed on social conditions. It is for that reason that Dean Porter's address on Sunday evening will be of unusual interest. The American Forum meets Sunday nights at 7:30 o'clock.

What Every Manufacturer Ought to Know

The place for fiction is in literature.—The place for facts is in business.
All great opportunities carry corresponding hazards.
The Metropolitan area of New York is the Mecca for "Million Making"—which no one denies; particularly the manufacturer catering to the fundamental wants of nearly ten million people within this zone.
The great market of the world is New York.
To win it, requires a good organization, a worthy product and business strategy.
Strategy implies a knowledge of facts and a disposition to utilize them.
In the battle for business, neither bias nor bunk makes for success.
As in other affairs of life, it is the Truth that makes us free—Free to Win.

DO YOU KNOW that all the daily papers are compelled to make sworn statements of their circulations twice a year to the United States Government? These sworn statements indicate the average daily circulation of these papers for the past six months. They are as follows:

NEW YORK EVENING JOURNAL	685,428 copies
Evening World	339,199 copies
Evening Sun	198,491 copies
Globe	188,780 copies
Evening Telegram	181,519 copies
Mail	155,160 copies
Post	30,026 copies

DO YOU KNOW that these statements establish the FACT that:

The Evening Journal sells daily 346,229 MORE papers than the Evening World.

The Evening Journal sells daily 486,937 MORE papers than the Evening Sun.

The Evening Journal sells daily 496,648 MORE papers than the Globe.

The Evening Journal sells daily 530,268 MORE papers than the Mail.

The Evening Journal sells daily 503,909 MORE papers than the Telegram.

The Evening Journal sells daily 655,402 MORE papers than the Post?

IN FACT—

The Evening Journal sells daily 112,971 MORE papers than the Globe, Sun, Mail and Post combined.

DO YOU KNOW there is an Audit Bureau of Circulations which investigates yearly the circulations of all newspapers wishing to have their United States Government statements verified? If you desire to know where the daily New York newspapers circulate, whether in city, suburbs or country, become a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, Century Building, Chicago, Illinois. It would pay you to join and receive these statements as they are issued. All New York newspapers, morning and evening, are members of this bureau, with the exception of the Morning World, the Evening World, the New York Herald and the Telegram.

DO YOU KNOW the circulation today of the New York Evening Journal within a radius of fifty miles of the heart of N. Y. is over 650,000?

DO YOU KNOW this concentrated circulation is more than twice the circulation of the New York Evening World in this district?

DO YOU KNOW the circulation of the New York Evening Journal in this territory exceeds the New York Sunday Times by more than 350,000?

DO YOU KNOW the circulation of the New York Evening Journal in Brooklyn is more than the combined circulation of all Brooklyn daily papers published in Brooklyn?

DO YOU KNOW (if you are a manufacturer of goods sold over the grocers' counters) the New York Evening Journal, through its Merchandising Service Department, offers to its advertisers without cost an opportunity to talk every thirty days to every grocer and delicatessen dealer in this territory through the columns of its trade paper, TRADE NEWS, Grocery Edition?

DO YOU KNOW this Merchandising Service Department furnishes a route list of this territory that is checked and re-checked every thirty days, and kept as nearly perfect as possible in a territory as large as this?

DO YOU KNOW this service is offered to manufacturers whose wares are sold through Men's Shops and Haberdashery Stores?

DO YOU KNOW this service is also offered to manufacturers whose products are sold through Drug Stores.

DO YOU KNOW that manufacturers of automobile accessories whose units of distribution are represented by Garages, Hardware and Accessory Stores are provided with similar merchandising co-operation?

From all of which FACTS there is only one deduction to be drawn:

The Manufacturer wishing to sell his goods in the New York Market should advertise his wares in the paper not only printed in New York but sold in New York.

That paper is the New York Evening Journal.

Over 650,000 copies at 2c a copy are sold in New York every day.

Haverhill High in Big Clash With Englewood High at Haverhill Stadium

Haverhill, Dec. 6—Haverhill High and Englewood High met in an interscholastic football game at Haverhill today. Both teams were fit and a hard, fast game was looked for by the enthusiasts who filled every nook and corner of the big stands and overflowed into the sidelines.

There was much speculation as to the style of attack Quarterback Fein rated the best school team field general in Chicago, would select, but the Haverhill boys were prepared for any emergency which might present itself, having been given special coaching by Bill Broderick on how to break up the open field game, for which the Western boys are rated past masters.

Coach "Barry" Baradell, who learned his football under Zuppke, refused to commit himself about the contest, the Englewood mentor merely saying that he expected a hard game. He had words of praise for no backfield men, whom, he said, had never yet failed to make big gains a day's field.

Both teams had excellent season records. Englewood met defeat at the hands of the Oak Park eleven, 14 to 14, Thanksgiving Day, while Lowell was dazzled by the open play of Manchester High, and lost, 0 to 0. Haverhill's other defeat was rolled out by the New Hampshire All-College Freshmen, the score being 6 to 0.

Englewood is the undisputed champion of Chicago, though twice defeated and tied by the Lane Technical team.

Indiana High was swamped in an early game, 53 to 0. Other triumphs were over Tilden, 53 to 0; Austin, 13 to 0; Hyde Park, 16 to 0; Lakeview, 13 to 0; Lane Technical was tied, 0 to 7.

Haverhill scored 176 points to 45 for opponents. Broderick's boys defeated Dean Academy 2nd, 25 to 0; Lynn Classical, 13 to 0; Pittsburg, 7 to 7; Lawrence, 33 to 6; Brookline, 7 to 0; Lowell, 6 to 0; Peabody, 28 to 0; St. John's Prep, 7 to 0, and Adams, 1 to 0.

WILLIAMS EX-PLAYER WINS FLYING CROSS

Williamstown, Dec. 6—Philip J. Barnes of Chicago, a former Williams football player, was personally decorated with the Naval Air Cross of Great Britain by the Prince of Wales during the latter's recent visit to the United States.

Barnes distinguished himself by making a new record for a non-stop flight when, on the 4th of July, 1919, he flew from Newfoundland to Ireland in a hydroplane. He was an ensign in the American Aviation Corps, but for several months during which he performed the feats mentioned, was serving temporarily with the British fliers.

HARVARD SEVEN OUT ON NEW STADIUM RINK

Harvard's hockey team is now able to practice on natural ice. The first rink built in the Stadium has just been flooded, and Coach Bill Claflin is working his men out daily on its surface. Sixty men are candidates for the seven positions on the team.

EAST BOSTON ELEVENS CONTEST CHAMPIONSHIP

The aggressive Pittone A. C. football team faced at Everett High field their most dangerous rival, the Indians, for the championship of Noddle Island.

Gloucester Five Wins

Gloucester, Dec. 6—Gloucester basket ball team defeated Charlestown A. C., 44 to 35, at City Hall.

WILDE IN FIRST BOUT HERE TONIGHT

By ED W. SMITH.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 6—Everybody will have a pretty fair sort of an idea by tonight just how good Jimmy Wilde is or will be among the bantamweights of this country.

The little English battler makes his first American appearance tonight here against Jack Sharkey, an Italian boy from New York, the route being ten rounds.

There will be no official decision rendered in case the thing goes the full distance.

Not in a good many months has such interest been displayed in a ring encounter in this section of the country. It looks as though here would be a sell-out house.

It is my opinion that Sharkey will give Da Stranger a pretty good sort of a battle because he is constantly pulling the most unexpected tricks in the ring and may be counted on at the time to rather razzle Wilde with the speed he will show.

Wilde will find quite an unusual man in front of him when the first bell is sounded for action.

Sharkey I should say, is even more unusual than Pal Moore and is possessed of considerable more speed. When he starts stepping around the Briton is apt to find himself at a loss to find a safe and sane method of procedure.

The conditions call for a 3 o'clock weighing, but there is a side agreement that forces Sharkey to stand in at 7 o'clock at 116 pounds or pay a forfeit of $2,000 up that he makes it.

YALE MAKING PLANS TO FORM POLO TEAM

New Haven, Dec. 6—Yale's decision regarding the formation of a polo team in connection with the cavalry and artillery work of the members of the Reserves Officers' Training Corps will be made Monday evening when a meeting will be held in Lawrence Hall to discuss the situation. It is expected that membership on the Yale team, if one is formed, will be limited to the members of the R. O. T. C., because of the strenuous practice which will be necessary to assure membership on the team, only all undergraduates have been invited to attend the organization meeting.

Twice Yale has attempted to form polo teams, but the sport was regarded as too dangerous in 1916 and shortly before the war, was declared too expensive.

SIX-DAY RACE HELD UP 45 MINUTES BY EXPLOSIONS

New York, Dec. 6—A series of sharp underground conduit explosions that loosed manhole covers from their moorings and sent them hurtling through the air, along Broadway, Fifty-second and Twenty-second streets, caused the police to stop the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden, last a panic ensued, and to drive the vast audience from the garden.

After 45 minutes the police permitted the racers to resume activity and allowed the crowd to re-enter the garden.

WARNER SIGNS TO COACH PITT ELEVEN FOUR YEARS

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6—Glenn Warner, coach of the University of Pittsburgh football team, has signed to coach the Panthers until the end of the 1923 season, it was announced by the athletic council of the university.

SOFTLY THE CUCKOOS ARE CALLING

LIKE a thunderbolt out of a clear pocket comes the news that Keenistmas is almost here.

IT is that nimble season of joyful giving. When you pipe what they give, you understand why the givers are always joyful. Keenistmas is the only spasm of the year when you can get rid of some family heirloom without taking either or giggling gas.

IT is more blessed to give than to receive. Especially a Krismas present.

HAVING accumulated two sets of buttons on his mitt from diving south into his cash pocket, the old man won't mind a little Xmas bunion on his bullion paw. The profiteers have picked his B. R. cleaner than the framework of a boarding house Thanksgiving turkey. Christmas is only another thump on the old busted tambourine.

THE gift season started in Troy many income blanks ago. The Greeks gave the Trojans a wooden hobby horse loaded with election thugs. The downfall of the Greek nation dated from that gift. There wasn't one Greek left over to take back the hobby horse and exchange it for something useful. No gift is a success unless you can tak eit back and trade it for something sensible.

SINCE then, the office has been to lay off Greek packing gifts. The phrase is elastic like police and firemen's suspenders. It includes everybody like the Eighteenth Amendment. The best way to treat a December gift is to soak it in water until the detectives arrive. If it's a bomb it won't go off. If it's a necktie it won't go on.

EVERYBODY expects a money gift around an apartment house. The doorboy, the elevator man, the janitor and the telephone girl are always doing squads right around the family entrance. That's the reason Santa Klaus loses the chimney. That old baby was learning something while his whiskers grew.

DON'T roast the spirit that prompts folks to wish gifts on one another. The sentiment is beautiful. So is poison ivy. Cast thy bieuths on the water and they will return in many days. If the fish don't eat 'em. And many days is a wonderful phrase, full of poetry and procrastination. However, the loan sharks still insist on the orthodox thirty, sixty and ninety. Which extracts the romance from the tournament.

THE old boat is going to have a tough time riding out the gift storm. The profiteers and the landlord haven't left a spa enough skin to get a pimple on. The venerable craft is drifting on the poorhouse rocks. The anchor is made of cork and the life preservers are lead pipes. When the old man wakes up on Xmas morn and pipes the liability pie, the family has baked for him—

LEONARD TRAINS HARD FOR 'GO' WITH COOGAN

New York, Dec. 6.—Benny Leonard held a strenuous session of training at Stillman's gym in preparation for his bout with Mc-Coogan at the Fourth Regiment Armory Jersey City, next Wednesday night. Leonard boxed six rounds with Joe Benua and who will meet Tommy Touhey in the semi-final bout.

Up at Grupp's gym Al Reich put in some hard licks getting into condition for a meeting with Al Roberts at the same show.

DECISION RESERVED IN AMERICAN LEAGUE CASE

New York, Dec. 6. Supreme Court Justice Crenbaum took the papers submitted at the hearing on the application of the New York American League Base Ball Club for an order restraining Ban B. Johnson from calling the new baseball war by the league at Chicago Wednesday, and announced that he would give his decision later.

Carpentier Challenged

Montreal, Dec. 6—The Canadian Hockey Club has cabled a challenge to Georges Carpentier to meet Eugene Brousseau Dominion middleweight champion in a boxing contest on here on July 1.

Maine Hotel Man Dies

North Adams, Dec. 6 Joseph Marriott of Houlton, Me., proprietor of a hotel in that town, died at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Durand of Eagle street, while on a visit.

HARVARD ELEVEN SELECTED FOR COAST TRIP

The Harvard players, who will make the trip to the coast to play the New Year's Day game at Pasadena Tournament of Roses as selected by Head Coach Bob Fisher follows:

Ends, Desmond, Steel, Ryan, Phinney; tackles, Sedgwick, Kane, Hubbard, Paxon; guards, Clark, Woods, Brown, center, Haverstroy, Philbin; quarterbacks, Captain Murray, Felton, Johnson; backs, Casey, Humphrey, Carpenter, R. Harrison, Burnham, Nelson, and Gratwick.

In addition to the twenty-four players, Fisher will have the companionship of assistants Eddie Mahan, Eddie Grant, Percy Haughton, Dermie Parmenter and probably Sam Felton. P. Dick Moore, graduate manager, is in charge of the arrangements for the trip.

The squad leaves December 20 taking the 3 p. m. train for Chicago. Very few stops will be made until San Francisco is reached on the 28th as Miss Eve, where the men will remain over night.

Father Pooch Donovan will be in charge of practice Monday and Tuesday, after which Coach Fisher will take hold. The men will work out on Soldiers Field as long as it is practical then will continue their sessions indoors.

OPEN AIR SPORTS HELD BY K. OF C. IN VLADIVOSTOK

To relieve the anxiety of some American parents back home, writes Garry McGarry, Knights of Columbus supervisor in Siberia, to Overseas Editor William F. Larkin: "It might be worth mentioning that those of our boys in Vladivostok just as far away as they are, not any worse than Canada, and better some of the time."

He states that the Knights are able to hold open air sports galore, and that the latest development is an open air fighting field, where boxers and wrestlers from the different battalions and different nationalities in Vladivostok take part in competitions held by the Knights.

"We are developing some men in all the weights out here who will give a good account of themselves on their return home," writes McGarry. In response to the K. C. supervisor's request Mr. Larkin ordered the shipment of several cases of boxing gloves and wrestling mats to Siberia.

GEORGETOWN ARRANGES GAME WITH NAVY ELEVEN

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 6—Georgetown has accepted the offer of the Naval Academy to play at Annapolis on November 6 of next year. It brings the first game of the navy real schedule to be settled definitely.

The University of Nebraska has offered to play at Annapolis on November 13, but the guarantee asked made it too heavy for the midshipmen, in view of the fact that they receive nothing, by way of gate receipts.

BIG HAVERHILL POOL ROOM LOSES LICENSE

Haverhill, Dec. 6—The Municipal Council voted to revoke the license of Calvin Leeland, manager of the Colonial pool room and bowling alleys the largest in the city, upon a motion of Commissioner of Public Safety Roswell L. Wood, after he had brought to the attention of the members that the law relating to minors had been violated by the manager.

The Commissioner also charged openly that the police officers have paid little or no attention to orders to keep strict watch on pool rooms and alleys.

JOE EAGAN WINS VERDICT OVER FRED DYER AT C. A. C

Joe Eagan fought at his best in his 6-round contest with Fred Dyer at the Commercial Club and as a result he won the decision of Referee Noah Dietz. It was Dyer's debut as a ring official at the West End club, and he handled his task well. Eagan was only obliged to render a verdict in the main bout, as the other tussles were decided by the 3-rays route.

Eagan's left hand gave him the advantage. He moved around the ring with considerable speed, and soon had left popping our continuously. When he cornered Dyer he would drive home with smashing right hand blows.

Young Muggsy had an easy time stopping Al Lane in a round. Johnny McGovern also flashed a knack in his tussle with Young Delmont.

Conditions in weather and field that insured fast football greeted the teams of Hamilton Institute and Allen School when they took the gridiron at Braves Field, to demonstrate over the season of New York boasted the better private school football team.

The former organization was generally credited as being the strongest private school eleven in New York and New Jersey, while Allen School's record placed it high in the list of Massachusetts prep school football teams and entitled it to the private school championship of Greater Boston.

Both organizations were exceptionally heavy for prep school teams the Hamilton line averaging 175 pounds and Hamilton Institute line just missing that mark. Because neither coach was able to scout the opposing team and prepare defenses for the game, the contest was looked upon as a real football battle which would be used against his team there was much doubt as to the likely victor. Many expected the teams to run up a number of points before the game had ended.

Lexington Hockey

Ice hockey is to be taken up by Lexington High school. John Kelley, the baseball captain has been chosen as captain.

Colby Sport Head Quits

Waterville Me. Dec 6—Robert L. Ervin has resigned as graduate manager of athletics at Colby College.

Williams Likely to Play in Stadium Next Year

Williamstown Dec 6—Williams will return to its former place on the Harvard football schedule next year after an absence of six years. The Purple schedule has not been completed as yet, but Manager Dana states that the meeting with the Crimson eleven at Cambridge early in the Fall is practically assured.

No other member of the Big Three will be played, according to present plans. The Harvard game will take the place of the annual meeting with Cornell that has been played for several years past. Williams may take on Colgate next Fall, too, although this has not been definitely decided as yet.

SILENT MARTIN TO OPPOSE TREMBLY

Bogash Seeks Bout with Young Kloby; Robinson Cunning for Johnny Wilson

By JACK CONWAY.

Silent Martin of Brooklyn will have Eddie Trembly, champion middleweight of the navy, as an opponent in a twelve-round bout at Portland Monday night. In a recent tussle at Frank De Rico's club Martin won over Pal Reid of this city in six.

Trembly made a big reputation as a fighter in the navy and is sure to be a hard nut for Martin to crack. Should the pair be matched to meet Boyd when [illegible] a broken hand [illegible] Martin a great battle. [illegible] was forced to retire from the contest after he shattered his left hand.

Louis Bogash, bridgeport welterweight now wants a match with Young Kloby. Bogash is one of the few boxers who would have a chance of stopping the Y. M. C. A. champion. He proved his ability as a puncher at Clinton the other night when he floored Eddie McAndrews in a round. As a boxer Bogash classes with Paul Doyle. He is one of the few gloves wielders who has won a decision over Doyle. If Bogash gets a tussle with Kloby he will not lack for supporters. He is a consistent boxer and fighter and would have a fine chance to put over a victory.

George Robinson is still waiting to hear about a bout with Johnny Wilson. A few weeks ago Wilson stated he would agree to a contest with Robinson. He then insisted on a delay. A tussle between Wilson and Robinson would appeal to the fans. There would not be any quick knockout for one thing. Robinson is clever and game enough to give Wilson a hard battle for ten full distance. And his skill and speed might enable him to defeat the champion.

George (Kid) Brown will probably arrive in Boston Monday. He's got a busy program for next week. On Tuesday night he will box Johnny Mooney in a ten-session whirl at the Suffolk A. A. Wednesday evening, Jack Linahan [illegible] manager, feels confident his [illegible] will make it a walk [illegible]

The Suffolk A. A. plans to give another [illegible] of referee tryouts in its preliminary matches. This plan will help to develop some new and [illegible] capable referees are certainly needed in Boston.

Howard McRae is busy training in the hope of getting a tussle with Johnny Dundee [illegible] Johnny [illegible] has already met Dundee two times and the bouts ended in a draw. [illegible] are he would [illegible] to [illegible] the McCarthy's.

Eddie Mack comes to bat with the announcement that Tommy Ennis will be prepared to give battle to Tommy O'Brien the [illegible] night after next Tuesday night. Ennis meets Jack Reed of New Orleans on the Kelley and Lane card at the Armory Club's show. Mack believes the Paterson lightweight will [illegible] Reed, by which event he'll be in a position to go after a contest with O'Brien.

Johnny Gray is another boxer who would like a tussle with Downes. The writer dare say he will [illegible] one day and did Gray an injustice by stating he had lost a decision to Downes. The boys had a newspaper [illegible]

Charley Parker, south End lightweight and Young Mellos of Syracuse, have been signed to meet in a twelve-round bout at the opening show of the Commonwealth A. A. at Scenic Temple next Thursday night.

100 CANDIDATES FOR TECH HOCKEY TEAM

C. L. Foote, former Colonial and B. A. A. hockey star and recently coach of the St. Mark's Academy hockey team, has been secured to coach the Massachusetts Institute of Technology hockey team.

The first call for candidates brought out more than 100 men. The new coach addressed the men and outlined the plans for the coming season.

The first days of next week will be devoted to small practice and by the time the men reassemble after the holidays they will be rounded into form.

Coach Foote predicted that six-man hockey would be played almost exclusively this Winter due to the lack of large playing surface.

PRINCETON BASKETBALL SEASON TO OPEN DEC. 10

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 6—The Tiger quintet is fast rounding into form for the season's opening contest with Manhattan College which is slated to take place here December 10. Although Princeton has never won intercollegiate championship the hopes of the locals are high this year and with all of last year's five again in action, with the exception of Captain Gray the Orange and Black will face Ya enough team with an experienced and formidable outfit.

The "Water Chestnut"

FROM China has been obtained the "water chestnut," the tubers of which eaten raw or in stews are a source of much gratification to the palates of the pig-tailed epicures. They are also sliced and shredded for soups. Boiled as a Winter vegetable, they somewhat resemble in flavor sweet corn.

I sat there [illegible] and [illegible] it seemed [illegible] Well, surely not [illegible] there [illegible] Cosby. [illegible] hour. Now [illegible] decent Anne."

"How dear you look—like a strawberry ice cream [illegible]," I said honestly. That made me very conscious of the contrast we presented—ice cream and flowers.

I had a bad time of it holding my end. I was dull. I couldn't manage a gracious manner. My head ached and ideas wouldn't come. Presently that ordeal ended like a bad dream.

Then dancing. I hate partners, but they didn't matter, in the foreground of my consciousness was the fact that I hadn't seen Jim and Valerie since the third or fourth dance. I kept going till midnight. Then I found Lane Cosby and told him I had a headache and was going to bed.

"Little Val was tired and went long ago," he replied, in his pretty way. "Then you don't think I'm rude," I said, gratefully.

"Not a bit of it. Run along." "Yes, I am going. When I got upstairs it occurred to me that I might be only decent to look at Valerie's door and see if there was anything I could do for her. I turned down the corridor, stopped at her room and knocked ever so lightly. No answer.

"Mrs. Cosby—it's Anne. Can I do anything for you?" I whispered.

Still no answer. In a sort of stupor I turned the knob. It gave. The door opened and I peered over the threshold. The room was empty.

"Jim, Cosby!" I cried again to the empty room.

Of course there wasn't any answer. I went on—more from a matter if I expected Valerie [illegible] to materialize from some of the cool webby chiffons that were flung across the chairs and doorknobs. Then, very quietly, I went out and shut the door noiselessly after me. I ran back to my own room and let myself in.

"Moonlight," I said, suddenly. "Moonlight!"

Then I began to think—silently, resentfully.

In the Moonlight

I hadn't seen J m since before 10 o'clock. It was after 12 now—nearer 1. Perhaps there wasn't a thing to—resent. Jim might be playing pool or more poker. He might indeed have been doing that all evening. Valerie Cosby might have gone down with a spasm or she might have come upstairs by now.

He might. She might. You knew better. In every resentful beat of my heart, I knew that Valerie Cosby and Jim were out in the moonlight together—knew that I [illegible] Reprinted From Good Housekeeping

Stocks Irregular in New York and Firm in Boston; Trading Quiet; Sterling Rate Higher

MARKET DULL WITH PRICES HIGHER

Massachusetts Gas a Boston Exchange Feature; Curb Stocks Lower

Trading was very quiet on the Boston exchanges all the morning, and the only feature of interest during the first half of the session was the three-point advance of Massachusetts Gas. It was active as well as strong. Prices were higher in the listance of most stocks at the start and later.

Coppers had a firm tone, but business in these shares continued to be on a small scale. Increased sales of metal have inspired better feeling in mining circles, but the copper surplus is so large that it will be a long time before the industry gets back to normal. Packing issues ruled higher and auto accessory shares were weak as a class. Demand for them diminished this week. There is some life in Eastern Manufacturing and Rider. Highcart continued to attract attention and was stronger.

Boston Consolidated, Old Dominion, West End and United Drug advanced from one to two points during the forenoon. Fractional gains were made by Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, North Butte, Davis-Daly and Reed & Van Dorn.

Among issues to decline were Mexican Investment, Gray & Davis, Mullins Body, Carson Hill Silver and Parish & Bingham. The last named was off a point.

CURB PRICES EASY OFF.

After exciting strong prices on the Boston Curb eased off and at the end of an hour this market had weakened. Mutual Divide was a feature, starting with ¾ gain at 8 and reacting before the close to 2¾. The more active issues were Boston & Montana, Seven Metals and Verde Mines.

Stocks in slow location in the second hour were Black Hawk Development Mining and Ohio Body. Among those to show gains were Arizona Silver, Hendee, Silver Reef, Seven Metals and Verde Mines.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Elmer H. Bright and Co., members of the New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, have taken over the brokerage business of Whittington and Co. and hereafter H. Parker Whittington will be located at the office of the former firm.

Charles B. Keene, long its secretary, has been elected a Boston Elevated director to succeed E. B. Dewing.

Clinton Wright savings are estimated at $2.50 a share on Boston & Albany stock in the corporation's present rate of business.

Reed & Hecker's Natchez copper output was 1,062,000 pounds, the smallest for a month since their trouble started in earlier in 1917.

It is expected that Shawmut Steamship stock will soon be transferred from the Boston Curb to the Boston Stock Exchange. This corporation is now operating three ships and has contracted for two more. Its present earnings are estimated at being at the rate of about $8.50 a share.

Ware & Co.'s New Offices

George L. Ware & Co. have moved from No. 50 Congress street to No. 35 Congress, and are occupying at the latter address larger and more convenient offices.

REPORT INCREASED SALES OF COPPER

Increasing copper sales are reported by the trade, transactions on that kind on Thursday and Friday totaling the largest for a week.

The leading agencies are now asking 18½ cents a pound, an increase of about a quarter of a cent. And producers can consumers apparently are taking advantage of the present low price to stock up for next year. Meanwhile the coal shortage is curtailing production.

As regards foreign buying, it is stated that one producer has sold 5,000,000 pounds to Germany within sixty days, and that the American Export Copper Association has signed of 12,955,000 pounds to German consumers in November. All this copper was paid for in American dollars and the bulk of it shipped to Holland.

Mass. Motors Preferred Stock

It is stated that the gross business of the Massachusetts Motors, Inc, for the year has been twenty times the cash working capital, and that net profits, after deducting interest charges, were equivalent to $10 a share on preferred and 13 a share on common. This corporation is retailing twenty well-known motor cars, and has salesrooms and service stations in most of the largest New England cities. M. J. Meagher & Company are offering 16,000 shares of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of Massachusetts Motors, Inc, at par, $100 a share. This stock has been paying quarterly dividends since its incorporation, and a recent report showed this concern has been doing a gross business of more than $250,000 a month. The corporation now has on hand divided profits equivalent to $21.60 per share for its issued preferred stock. Net earnings for 1919 to date were more than twelve times the dividend requirements.

Cotton Market

New York, Dec. 6.—The cotton market was steadier at the opening today and advanced to 27 points higher on first sales. SUGARS STRONG AND RAILS ADVANCE

Leather, Rubbers and Tobacco Higher, While Oils and Steels Recede

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at the close, sugars, leathers rubbers and tobaccos being higher while steels and oils had receded. Rails were loses to show class strength.

Cuba Cane sold at its year's highest, being up five points at its best. Trading was dull. In the foreign exchange market sterling demand advanced two cents to $3.86¾ at the opening.

At the opening there was some buying by the public and also covering of short contracts, demand being sufficient to send the majority of stocks up a little. Dealers were the only group to show positive strength at the outset, while steels were about the weakest. The improvement brought out liberal offerings and a recessional began at once. Within thirty minutes the entire outnumbered gains. The next movement was upward, but was rather feeble, rubbers and oils showing fractional declines. During the first hour the trend was theertain. Traders were exceedingly cautious about recommendments. Meanwhile and other conditions making happenings of consequence possible Sunday. The latest short-covelines were by Crucible, Pan-American, General Motors and Republic. Lorillard advanced five points on first transactions, while Retail Stores and Lee Tire were among strongest issues.

Wall Street Briefs

In November twenty-eight charters were granted to new automobile trucks country and there are now 278 companies engaged, seven of which are from Boston.

Reserve banks have established record price of $1.87 a gallon and $2 a gallon in January is predicted.

The Oil Industry — Present and Future

An Intensely Interesting Educational Treatise
Not in the Nature of an Advertisement

This most timely and interesting booklet has been published for the purpose of disseminating pertinent facts and practical information on this greatest of all modern industries. It is in no sense an effort to exploit any one oil company or group of companies. The opinions stated are principally based on first hand, inside knowledge of each department of the oil business, and the booklet is truly a brief outline of a few of the vital issues discussed, such as:

"Factors Causing Increased Use of Petroleum"—"Oil Fields of the World"—"Oil Fields of the United States"—"Facts About Oil Companies"—"Facts of Property Value"—"Oil Stocks as Investments"—"Oil Stocks as Speculations"—"Dangers of Stock Promotion"—"Causes of Failure in Oil Companies"—"Profits to be Derived from Producing Oil Stocks," and many others of equal importance.

FREE — Now and revised to date, this booklet will be sent free, postpaid and without obligation to any address.

Special Report on Any Oil Company Also FREE

Our location in the very heart of the world's greatest oil field enables us to secure dependable facts about properties and management of any oil company. Detailed reports on these companies furnished free and promptly.

Ford Hall Meetings

"The Judge Lindsey for Grown-Ups"

Judge B. C. Backus of Milwaukee has been called in to talk at this forum on the subject, "Lindsey for Grown-Ups." He will discuss "What Society Owes the Erring." Come and hear him tell how he dealt with the anarchists who appeared before him, and why he sent to an insane hospital instead of to prison a well-to-do man who shot at Roosevelt. It will be interesting indeed to hear a man answer such questions which the Ford Hall crowd will put to him. Westmoreland Willcox presides. Silver collection at the door.

"Shantung and Allied Problems of the Tinted Races"

BRID

DENIES $6 RAISE WILL BOOST SUITS $10

Zorn Claims Clothing Would Advance Only $1.50; May Arbitrate

Charges that the price of suits will advance $10 each if the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America are granted a $6 a week higher wage scale was made by the head of the Clothing Employers' Association, were flatly denied today by Samuel Zorn, president of the Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

Mr. Zorn states that the price will not advance more than $1.50 per suit.

Each of the four thousand members of the tailors' organization will cast a vote tomorrow as to what action shall be taken by the leaders in regard to the demands which have been made on the Clothing Employers' Association for a $6 a week minimum raise and more sanitary conditions.

OFFERED $5 INCREASE.

The Employers' Association have offered the men an increase of $5 per week providing they will drop all other demands.

The ballot tomorrow will contain the three following questions by which the leaders will be guided in their action:

"Shall the union pursue and realize all the demands which have been made? Shall they accept the $5 raise and drop all other demands? Or shall the question go to arbitration?"

Accusations that some of the tailors are making as high as $90 per week are declared by Mr. Zorn to be absurd, with the exception of one case. This man is known to his fellow-workers as "Joe the Horse," and it is stated that he is in the employ of three separate concerns.

An average wage scale has been compiled. This gives the average wage received per week by each of the men who are doing the work. Thirty-eight operations are required for the making of a garment, it is stated.

LIST OF DEMANDS.

Pocket makers, $50; pressmen, $50; brushers, $25; button sewers, $22; bushel girl, $21; coat closers, $35; cellar makers (hand work), $40; seden pressers, regular man, $30; lining makers, $60; special machine operators, $25; head mechanics, seaser (five years' experience as a head pressor grading coat), $45; shoulder basters, $23; sleeve makers, $30; basting pullers, $14; lapel makers, $40; trouser hole makers, $21; general operators, $40; basters, $33; trimmers, $35; underbasters, $25, and finishers, $30.

The tailors assert they have no intention of striking. However, it is possible that they will be forced to arbitrate with the employers, following tomorrow's vote.

ITALIAN CHAPLAIN TO TALK AT TRINITY, NEWTON

Captain Eli Bertalot, chaplain of the Italian Alpini, or mountain fighters, the "Blue Devils" of Italy, will make an address on "Italy" tonight in Trinity Church, Newton Centre, Sunday evening, at 7.15. Captain Bertalot was highly decorated for gallantry appointed to the Italian army. He served throughout the war, most of the time on the Austrian front in their mountain fighting. He is a delegate to the United States from the Waldensians.

Arthur W. Gilbert, State Commissioner of Agriculture, will address the Men's Club Monday evening on "Cheaper Food Products as an Antidote for Social Unrest."

Dorchester Legion to Have Miss Rankin as Benefit Guest

Arrangements have been completed by the Thomas J. Roberts Post, American Legion, for a benefit concert, which will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Codman Square Theatre, Dorchester.

Many prominent names in the political and theatrical world appear on the program. Jeanette Rankin, the first woman member of Congress, is coming from Montana to attend. Upon her arrival in the city she will be met by 300 members of the post and escorted to a luncheon, at which State and national officials will be present. Senator David I. Walsh will address the Legion on "Americanism and the American Legion." Mary Boyle O'Reilly will speak.

Colors will be presented to the post by several societies in Dorchester. Thomas H. Scales, the oldest member of the post, has been selected chairman of the meeting. Although over the age limit the colonel served two years in France.

Seats have been reserved for the families of the boys who were killed in France. Henry G. Roberts, the father of Thomas J. Roberts, in whose honor the post is named, will be introduced to the audience, as the first honorary member of the post.

Judges Are Not Autocrats; Just People's Servants

The North Dakota State Government has taken possession, in behalf of the people, of a certain mine for reasons which seemed legal and sound to the State authorities. The owners of the mine appealed to a State court, and the court issued an order to the State government to restore possession of the mine to those who formerly possessed it. In issuing his order, the judge said:

Any mandate that this court may issue, unless the government chooses to recognize it, cannot be carried out without civil war.

Judge Neussle then proceeded to give his views of the powers of the court, and the powers of the other branches of the government. He declared very vigorously that any attempt by the executive or legislative branches of the government, that is, by the Governor or by the Legislature, to construe the law or in any way to take the place of the court is just sheer despotism.

Our judges can become very plaintive or very thunderous, according to their character and to the character of the situation, when they talk of executive or legislative usurpation of the judicial power. Their outcry against any infringement of the power of the court always appears to be grave and sincere. Yet it is really very humorous, because judges of the courts have frequently erred by encroaching upon the legislative branch of the government. Their usurpation of executive and particularly legislative power has been one of the phenomena of American political history, and it constitutes today a very serious menace to our American democracy.

Our American courts sometimes act as the handmaidens of big business, and are permitted to usurp and exercise powers that were never considered anywhere in the world, at any time, past or present, to be judicial powers.

By interpretation, construction, or nullification, our courts have even attempted to defeat the deliberately-chosen policy of the people, adopted after long debate and consideration, as in the case of the income tax law.

No such authority was ever given any court in the world by any people, in ancient or modern times, nor was it given to our Federal Courts at any time by the American people. The courts have simply assumed it and "got away with it," through the supineness of the Congress and of the State Legislatures, controlled at times by the same interests that controlled our courts.

One of the great obstacles to political, economic and industrial progress in America lies in our habit of acquiescing in the assumed powers of our courts. It is always hard enough to overcome the inertia of great bodies of people. They are inclined (and, without doubt, wisely) to assume it is better to let well enough alone.

Those who challenge an existing wrong always have to bear the burden of proof. For the public has a strong instinctive feeling that "in striving to better, oft we mar what's well."

When progress, overcoming this inertia of conservatism or indifference, finally takes a decisive step forward, the courts, without hesitation, assume the power to nullify it by interpretation or prohibition.

These judicial handicaps are peculiar burdens of the American people from which the rest of the world is quite free. Elsewhere the courts are kept in their place and no judge thinks of declaring a law passed by the Legislature to be unenforcible because in the opinion of the judge the Legislature had no power to pass the law. One of the first steps of making America more democratic must be the step which will put our courts back where they belong.

Judges ought to be (and under our Constitution are) just as much servants of the people as Legislatures and executives.

Savings Bank Bill Decision

A curious situation arose in the last chapter of Simon Swig's fight to permit savings banks to pay a monthly dividend. It looked for a moment as if rather a crossing of wires had occurred. It will be remembered that certain interests in Boston sneaked a bill through the Legislature under a false title which by its title seemed to have for its object permitting savings banks to declare dividends every six months when the real object was to prohibit savings banks from declaring dividends every month.

Simon Swig opposed this bill and demanded a referendum under the Initiative and Referendum law. Thereupon, the Legislature reversed its action, passed an amendment to the law which provided that the savings banks might pay a dividend every month. But the petition having been filed it had to go to the voters. Through some oversight no statement of the situation was sent out to the voters and the voters voted according to the title of the bill in favor of the law. Immediately those who were in favor of the original bill claimed that the vote was in their favor. But the attorney-general has ruled that the vote is in favor of the bill as amended, the amended bill being consistent with the title of the bill.

Thus sharp practice "pulls a bone."

Stop Rent Profiteering

It is reported that the Supreme Court of Massachusetts has decided that the High Cost of Living Commission may not inquire into profiteering in rent, upon the ground that rent is not a commodity and that the power of the commission to inquire is limited to commodities.

The present session of the Legislature ought to lose no time in giving to the High Cost of Living Commission ample powers to make the fullest inquiry into this rent profiteering. There is nothing more outrageous in the whole profiteering business than the way some landlords have taken advantage, both of the rise in prices and of the shortage of houses, due to the war. If there is any means of stopping their extortions there ought to be no delay in adopting that means.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE PRIDE THAT WAS BETRAYED

By S. E. KISER

THEY parted, she pretending to be glad,
And he too proud to tell her that he cared.
That night she wept, too hopeless and too sad
To turn to pleasures that she might have shared.
He, pitying himself, walked far and fast;
All joy was dead, or so to him it seemed;
A dozen times Hope led him slyly past
The place where light once from her window streamed,
But, sick at heart, he wandered home at last.

He waited bitterly a week or two,
Leaping at every little sound he heard;
She tried to learn to hate him, but she knew
That he could win forgiveness with a word
And all her happy trustfulness restore.
Once when she fancied she had heard his voice
She hastened to her mirror, and no more
Bemoaned her lack of reason to rejoice—
It was the iceman at the kitchen door.

At last a message came, but not, alack!
The one that she was hoping he might send:
"Please let me have my foolish letters back,"
He begged, "and all will then be at an end!"
She sat a little while with drooping head,
Then wrote: "The letters cannot be returned;
But don't be filled with any needless dread;
Your silly scribblings always have been burned,
So please regard the past as safely dead."

Think not she pined and withered and then died,
Nor that his course led into evil ways;
She still is lovely; he possesses pride,
Both find the seasons filled with pleasant days,
And there are treasures that she likes to show
While leaning tenderly against his knee
Where others may not see and may not know—
His foolish letters, oft re-read, that she
Had taken care to burn long, long ago.

GETTING ON

"Do you find any improvement in my daughter's singing?" asked the anxious father.

"Oh, yes," replied the great master, "much improvement. I can listen to her for twenty minutes now without being unnerved for the rest of the day."

Letters to the Editor

Railway Report

Editor Boston American:

Will you kindly print this statement in your valuable columns, if possible. It deals with the so-called "report" of the Street Railway Commission, now being considered by a special session of the Legislature called for that purpose.

In my humble opinion, the "report" is a direct insult to the members of the present Legislature and to the people of Massachusetts. It is composed of recommendations, every one of which was overwhelmingly rejected in the House of Representatives this year, after exhaustive debate. Not one new idea or plan has been conceived by the special commission, except the anti-strike clause, which is an exceedingly explosive experiment, and should be speedily rejected, as it is a dangerous, anarchistic and un-American proposal.

Every other item recommended—purchase of Cambridge subway, abolition of tunnel rentals, abolition of excise taxes, abolition of roadway maintenance; in fact, every bill now urged was defeated by a vote of over two to one in this year's House. What new merit does this commission believe has been injected into these proposals—presumably because the commission placed their O. K. on these schemes forsooth, the members of the Legislature must perform a legislative somersault?

Let us analyze what they mean. The State paid the Elevated this year on account of an imaginary "deficit" about $4,000,000 of the people's money. If we should be compelled to "purchase" the Cambridge subway, the "El" would receive $8,000,000 more of the people's money, with no benefit to the purchaser—the State! Abolition of rentals and taxes would give them about $2,000,000 more, making a total grant, or gratuity to this private corporation, of $14,000,000 out of the public treasury. All in a period of one year! What does the public get in return? Nothing! What assurances of future relief are made to us? None!

Why doesn't the "El" petition for a reduction of dividends, which are guaranteed by law at 6 per cent.? Why don't they pass their dividends occasionally? Why doesn't the "El" sell the hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of unused property now on its hands all over its system?

Supply of Teachers

Editor Boston American:

Allow me a little space in your daily publication to help along the cause of the Boston school teachers. The superintendent of schools stated in the newspapers this week that there are "plenty of teachers on the available list to fill vacancies in the elementary grades." If there are so many available substitutes, why is it that a special class (special classes are composed of children who are feeble minded, etc.) in a certain school in the South End has been for thirteen days without a teacher? The class has been divided up between the several other teachers, who already have the maximum number of pupils in their classes. Why is it necessary in a certain grammar school in Dorchester to send an eighth-grade scholar to teach a fourth-grade class because the teacher was out on leave? Why should the public be so deceived by the officials of the public schools? True it is, there may be a large list of available teachers, but are they available? No, because they can receive better and LIVING wages in commercial lines.

The United States Government, in the settlement of strikes, advocates co-operation between employer and employe. Has not the School Committee admitted that $600 should be given the teachers? Have not the several thousands of tax-payers of the city of Boston given their approval of an increase in tax-rates to be used for increasing teachers' wages? Well, then, why doesn't the School Committee co-operate in the matter and not take the autocratic stand it does? Does the Chamber of Commerce realize that if a slight increase in the tax-rate to pay living wages to teachers does not go into effect now, sooner or later it will cost millions to build up the educational systems which are gradually being depleted?

Let all and one concerned pull together instead of pulling apart and push the $600 over the top and add another victory to the "law and order" campaign. Yours for the $600,

A BROTHER OF TWO SCHOOL TEACHERS.

Washington Hid News of Americans Tortured

RECORDS of the torture of Americans by Mexican bandits were suppressed for two months by Washington authorities on the plea that "the whole thing was known to be a German plot to embroil and distract the United States," according to charges made by the National Association for the Protection of American Rights in Mexico.

The association now reveals the tragic story of two Americans who were kidnaped, tortured and one of whom met his death at the hands of Mexican bandits. It presents sworn statements and a mass of evidence that make a startling new chapter in the story of the terror that reigns across the Rio Grande. A full account will be found in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The German Republic's own investigation of the causes of the war has convicted the Ex-Kaiser, in his own writing, of bringing on the world conflict. The Boston Sunday Advertiser begins tomorrow the exclusive publication of the startling proofs.

It appears to have been the habit of Wilhelm to scribble notes or comments on the margin of official dispatches or reports sent to him. More than 900 documents from the secret archives of the German Foreign Office have been studied. Most of them bore notations by the Ex-Kaiser, made in the exciting days preceeding the war.

The documents prove beyond doubt that the Ex-Kaiser did "egg on" Austria to attack Serbia and that he began inciting Austria to act two days after the assassination of the Austrian Crown Prince, thirty days before the war began.

These proofs constitute some of the most remarkable revelations of all the amazing developments that have followed the armistice.

President Wilson's desperate fight to save his League of Nations plan, which the allies had determined, during his absence in the United States, to omit from the Peace Treaty, is vividly described by Ray Stannard Baker in the third instalment of his "Inside Story of Wilson at Paris."

The President, says Mr. Baker, returned to Paris to find the idealistic bottom had dropped out of the conference. The allies were prepared to rush through a peace with Germany, but Wilson, by a bold stand that came as a bomb-shell, overturned all that had been decided upon since he sat at the peace table.

"Govern Ireland or get out," is George Bernard Shaw's advice to England. He proceeds to show that the British cannot preserve the peace in Erin, even with tanks and bombs.

"You may wipe out the Irish and yet not govern Ireland," he tells British statesmen. "For ten Sinn Feiners in handcuffs there are a million without handcuffs and not likely to wear them."

Concerning the "devolution" proposal recently brought forward, Shaw says:

"To Ireland it would be an affirmation of her slavery and an aggravation of it by putting upon her the drudgery of government without the freedom to govern herself as she pleases. It would unload part of England's job on Ireland without making it Ireland's job. And Ireland's inevitable reply is, 'We won't have it.'"

"The British government, which in 1918 considered friendly relations with the Bolsheviki, is now calling on the Germans to join in a blockade to starve the people of Soviet Russia. The government which, in reply to the Germans' wicked use of poison gas, used and was justified in using a similarly dreadful weapon against the Germans, is now providing this awful means of torturing men for use against Soviet Russia," writes Sir Leo Chiozza Money of the British Shipping Board.

In his forceful protest, which will be printed in the Boston Sunday Advertiser, the English statesman says, "Things are being done in our name which bring shame on us." Germany is too criminal to join the League of Nations, he adds, but unurged and unhallowed, she is good enough to help Britain starve Russia, with whom she is at peace!

Encircling isolation of Germany by her enemies' ring of steel brought on the World War, writes former Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg. In the third installment of his analysis of European politics before 1914, he declares the Kaiser was foiled in his peace efforts by the antagonism of England, allied with Japan, the jealousy of Russia and the hatred of France, together with the nullification of the Triple Alliance through Italy's animosity toward Austria and her aspirations in the Balkans. Hollweg asserts the situation compelled Germany to attempt to smash the Franco-Russian alliance. This meant coming to an understanding with England, and Berlin's policy failed to avert the world conflict.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, the martial poet, electrified the world by his seizure of Fiume; but Admiral Millo, Senator as well as naval chief, has "out-d'Annunzioed d'Annunzio" by annexing a large slice of the east Adriatic coast. How he as military governor proclaimed the union of Northern Dalmatia with Italy will be told in detail in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

From a woman's point of view, the Rev. Eva Ryerson Ludgate, America's famous woman evangelist, pleads for a living ministerial wage. As the daughter of a Congregational minister, and the friend and confidante of the women of a thousand parsonages, Miss Ludgate is well qualified to speak of the wage situation as it affects the minister's wife.

The Episcopal Church is rising in a body to see that its clergy receives proper compensation. All over the country tomorrow trained workers will solicit each of the million members of the church so that each can do his part. "A living wage" is their slogan and provision will be made to give a decent salary to the pastor of even the smallest parish.

Today the mercantile employe is coming in for consideration. Progressive store proprietors have come to realize the value to them of a healthy, happy sales force. Consequently a number of them have joined forces, subscribed a substantial fund and engaged scientists of the Harvard Medical School to devote their entire attention to the health of the sales people. Boston stores lead in this movement, which is the first of its kind in the world.

A man and a woman ostracised by society eight years ago when they forsook their legal mates, now laugh at the world they abandoned for existence on a lonely Pacific isle. Mrs. Frances Hewitt Bowne, who eloped with J. Lawrence Mott, 3d, tells how her happiness has been complete. She does not defend divorce, and she dwells on the sanctity of marriage, but Mrs. Bowne declares life is one grand song with "her man," who, in spite of his millions is steering fishing parties at $20 the day.

YOUR HOME LIFE

You realize that there is something wrong with your home life.

Perhaps there is not enough true companionship—not complete confidence.

Other married folk you know seem happier than you are, and while they may have their little squabbles, you feel an occasional domestic skirmish might be better than the eternal calm of your lives together.

Suppose you turn about this reasoning and apply it to yourself.

Are you the sort of person that your helpmate would like you to be?

Why should all the changes come from the other side?

Why should you expect another person to mold every ambition, like and dislike to your taste?

True comradeship will solve your home problem ideally.
